'South Africa Close to Reign of Terror'

By GERALD CLARK
(Special To The Times)

JOHANNESBURG — The full tragedy of South Africa was apparent today as the proclamation of a state of emergency began to take effect.

The government of Hendrik Verwoerd has dictatorial powers, and the rule of law has ended. The police can arrest anyone, without warrant, and keep him in custody for any length of time. There is no longer any such thing as a writ of habeas corpus.

The press is throttled, and cannot even publish the names of persons arrested.

Censorship of outgoing cabled messages is possible at any moment. This reporter last night was barred from doing a radio broadcast to New York.

But most tragic of all is the extreme strain now placed on relations between whites and Africans—with the aftermath anybody's guess.

The emergency proclamation came in just about the time 30,000 Africans marched into Capetown, demanding the release of their leaders arrested earlier in the day. The marchers, on a column a mile long, jammed the streets around the main police station and chanted "Afrika, Afrika." Then they marched peacefully back to their settlements, having made their point.

Even without their recognized leaders, the Africans possess immense powers of spontaneous collective action. This has always been implicit in the South African situation. But now, inflamed and agitated, and without the restraining influence of moderate leaders, they are capable of defying even the police and army bullets.

The physical clash of nationalism has begun, and there are no longer contacts between the reasonable Africans and the authorities for a discussion of grievances. Any Liberal white who maintains political touch with an African runs the risk of arrest.

Foreign reporters are now beseeched by white Liberals to be careful what they write about them. If it is not exactly a reign of terror, it is close to it.

This is the first state of emergency in South Africa in 38 years. It is also the gravest moment since the crisis developed 10 days ago.

The proclamation caught a nation already stunned by sudden wholesale arrests of whites and non-whites. It was broadcast repeatedly over South Africa radio—in English, Afrikaan and Bantu languages. And in its wake came government orders calling up units of the active citizen force, the equivalent of the United States National Guard. The implicit next stop is total curfew and martial law if situation continues to deteriorate.

The trial of strength has been brewing for

DRAMATIC RESCUE FROM ICE FLOE

Perched on tip of 100-foot aerial ladder, fireman Henry Rasmussen shouts instructions to David Thorton, 13, who became trapped on ice floe in Humber River, along with friend Ricky Irons, 8, after it broke away from shore near Toronto. After it jammed downstream, firemen put out ladder and boys tied ropes around themselves and were pulled to safety. (CP photo)

Huge Negro Rally Shouts Defiance

Police Squads Use Nightsticks

CAPETOWN (CP)—Thousands of angry Negroes assembled in a native area near Durban, South Africa, today and shouted their defiance to government emergency orders commanding them to return to work and end their campaign for greater rights.

They poured down from the hills and assembled into a crowd of between 5,000 and 6,000, shouting down police orders to disperse.

The giant rally came as police charged twice with nightsticks to disperse demonstrating crowds near Johannesburg, one of the main trouble spots in the unrest sweeping the country.

The crowd at Cato Manor, near Durban, surged around armored cars trying to block their path, and shouted demands for the release of leaders of the campaign for Negro rights, arrested Wednesday.

A press car which entered the native township was ordered out by leaders of the crowd.

"Take a picture at your peril," they told a photographer. "We will kill you."

The crowd stoned buses and brought them to a halt. The violence subsided only after the chief magistrate and native commissioner of the area agreed to meet demonstrators in the local soccer ground.

SEALED OFF

More than 3,000 armed white soldiers and sailors sealed off two big Negro settlements near here.

The navy men formed a cordon around the Nyanga township while the army encircled Langa. Nobody was allowed to enter or leave the settlements.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, carried out his threat to use regular armed forces to prevent new Negro demonstrations after rounding up more than 200 leaders of the campaign of defiance against the government's race laws. Some white Liberals and Indians were among those arrested.

A big army convoy meanwhile moved into Johannesburg, 800 miles north of this parliamentary capital, amid rumors that Negroes were planning a march on Fort Johannesburg Prison, where many of their leaders are held.

DISPERSE CROWD

Police were forced to make a baton charge on a crowd of about 300 who became threatening in the Jabavu area southwest of Johannesburg this morning. The crowd then dispersed.

Police said at Natalspruit, southwest of Johannesburg, railroad tracks were loosened and a stone roadblock thrown up on a highway. Police dispersed a crowd of about 150 near the roadblock.

The South African Parliament met through the night to speed action on legislation for the outlawing of the African National Congress, the Pan-Africanist Congress and other organizations accused of plotting a "massive revolt."

JAILED NEGRO LEADER NEEDS MEDICAL CARE

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — A defence lawyer appealed today for hospital treatment for Albert Luthuli, leader of the African National Congress, arrested Wednesday in a police roundup of campaigners for Negro rights.

Lawyer Israel Maisels said Luthuli, a defence witness at the marathon treason trial here, is seriously ill with high blood pressure and needs immediate hospital treatment. Luthuli told the treason hearing Wednesday that he was struck twice in prison after his arrest.

Houses Set Aflame As Big Jet Crashes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A flaming six-engine jet bomber exploded over Little Rock today and rained debris and death in its plunge near the state capital.

At least five persons, including three crewmen, were killed. Two civilians were known dead.

Flaming debris set seven or more houses afire.

One airman parachuted to safety but was burned seriously.

The B-47 bomber had taken off only 10 minutes earlier on a training flight from its station at Little Rock Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command facility. A base spokesman said the plane was capable of carrying nuclear weapons but had none aboard.

DIGS FIERY HOLE

One giant piece of wreckage dug a fiery 25-foot wide hole in a residential section near the capitol building.

The fuselage crashed into the home of Mrs. A. L. Clark, two miles from the state capitol. She was trapped and perished in the flames spread by the debris.

The body of another civilian, Jimmy Hollobaugh, 27, was pulled from the debris near the capitol. Nothing was left of his home except the foundation.

Bodies of two of the airmen were recovered from the wreckage near Mrs. Clark's home. The Air Force said the body of the third crewman also had been found.

FRANCE CLEARS SAHARA FOR 2ND A-BOMB TEST

PARIS (AP)—France today placed its vast atomic testing area in the Sahara Desert out of bounds to aircraft starting Friday morning—a necessary prelude to a second atomic test blast.

The French have been ready for some time to conduct their second atomic test. It was felt they would not do so while Soviet Premier Khrushchev is visiting France.

Khrushchev resumes top-level talks with President de Gaulle tonight.

Khrushchev expressed opposition to further atomic tests by France, or anyone else. His reaction to any French atomic test while he is in the country would likely be acid.

'ENCOURAGING STEP'

Russia to Study West A-Ban Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and Britain formally submitted the Camp David plan for a nuclear test ban to the Soviet Union today.

The plan challenges the Soviet Union to remove obstacles to a partial test ban treaty by agreeing to control details.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the Western proposals are "an encouraging step forward," but require extensive clarification.

He said he will submit questions on the plan at subsequent meetings of the three-power treaty negotiations after the Camp David proposals, worked out by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, have been carefully studied in Moscow.

In the 10-power disarmament conference also sitting in Geneva, Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, proposed that a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests be linked to a promise from world powers to renounce aggression and use of atomic and hydrogen weapons. He said these steps should be taken in advance of a general disarmament treaty.

If this approach is accepted, Zorin maintained, it will open the way to solution of the nuclear problem as a whole and represent "an important act of confidence".

The Western powers described Zorin's move as an attempt to commit them to a moral obligation which cannot be enforced.

'China Must Cut Arms Too'–Soviet

GENEVA (AP) — Western delegations were informed today the Soviet Union will insist on Communist China adhering to any world disarmament agreement.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin made this point at the 10-nation disarmament conference, in which the Red Peking government is not represented.

20-Minute Power Cut Hits City

Greater Victoria went powerless at 12.41 p.m. today.

A major break in power stopped all electrical services for 20 minutes, before an emergency circuit was cut in.

Lights flicked on again at 1.01 p.m. in some sections, while the city still wondered what had caused the big failure.

B.C. Electric telephone lines were jammed, but officials were unable to tell what caused the break.

Pedestrians and cars wound up in tangled confusion at downtown intersections where traffic signals stopped functioning.

Power was reported cut at Langford and Colwood but not at Brentwood.

Service was resumed by switching into an emergency cable from the Jordan River station.

Some telephone services were disrupted as switchboards in individual buildings lost power supply.

The break caused a delay in the publication of today's Times.

LOUISIANA PROTEST

Angry Negroes Quit College

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) —Enraged students at all-Negro Southern University quit school today because university officials refused to restore 18 of their fellows expelled for leading segregation protests.

The state-operated university was faced with the prospect of being left with only a handful of the 5,400 students enrolled.

The entire student body held a tumultuous pep rally instead of attending classes and decided to "form a double line to the president's office and withdraw."

That was not necessary, however, and long before the set time for forming the line students swarmed into the dean of men's office and began filling out withdrawal slips.

OUT OF SLIPS

The school ran out of withdrawal slips in 15 minutes and the students had to start using pink registration slips, writing on the back that "I officially withdraw as of March 31, 1960." Students were jammed outside the building waiting to get in.

A school official who refused to be identified said, "This has nothing to do with integration. What they're trying to do now is bargain with university officials. We can't bargain with them."

Columbia Talks

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canadian and American negotiators today opened their third round of joint development of the Columbia River. The closed-door session will end Friday.

BALANCED budget without major tax relief is prediction for federal budget to be brought down in Commons tonight by Finance Minister Fleming. Tax changes will be announced at about 6 p.m., P.S.T.

The national budget will be brought down in Parliament tonight by Finance Minister Fleming.

Ghana Urges Appeal To S. Africa

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Ghana asked the security council today to delegate the United States and Britain to appeal to South Africa to come to terms with leaders of the country's anti-segregationist movement.

If South Africa refuses to respond to the appeal, Ghanian Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sockey told the council, economic or diplomatic sanctions should be levied against it by the United Nations.

The suggestion from Ghana, the former British Gold Coast colony in West Africa, came as the security council started its second day's debate on race killings which took 70 to 80 lives 10 days ago when police fired on mass demonstrators against the apartheid policy.

South Africa maintained its boycott of the debate, although its delegation took seats in a far corner of the security council chamber.

Ottawa to Renew Coal Export Subsidy

OTTAWA (CP) The government will continue to give assistance payments on Nova Scotia and New Brunswick coal shipped to Ontario and Quebec and on Alberta and British Columbia coal for export during the 1960-61 fiscal year, it was announced today. Rates will be the same as under the present subvention program expiring today.

Station Blast Kills 5

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — An explosion blew apart a gasoline service station in downtown Auburn Wednesday night and killed three firemen, the station owner and another person. Two women, residents of an apartment building next door, were injured and taken to a hospital in this Central New York State city.

SPRING FLOOD HITS ONTARIO

TORONTO (UPI) — A spring thaw in southern Ontario today brought flooding that was blamed for the drowning death of a Guelph boy and marooned two trains in Meaford.

Drizzling rain meanwhile added to the threat of rising rivers and streams as mild weather moved in from the flood-ravaged U.S. Midwest.

LONDON PRESS BLASTS VERWOERD

'Things Can Never Be the Same Again'

LONDON (CP) — British newspapers today sharply criticized South Africa for arresting champions of Negro rights and declaring a state of emergency.

The story was carried under front-page banner headlines in most papers.

The Liberal News Chronicle says South Africa now is "under a full dictatorship" and "virtually on a war footing."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, says "things can never be the same in South Africa again."

The Times, Independent, says actions of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd present the "frightening spectacle of a man whom the gods wish to destroy and are depriving of wisdom."

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror comments: "This power-mad rule of South Africa is deliberately smashing the few bridges of understanding now left between the 3,000,000 whites of South Africa and the 10,000,000 Africans whom they dominate."

Seems th' Bomarcs glittin' low marks.

Economic Future Bright—Grauer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A. E. Grauer, president of British Columbia Power Corporation, predicted today that Canada's gross national product will rise to an all-time high of almost $37,000,000,000 in 1960.

Mr. Grauer said also that business and government investment in the country will be the largest in history if department of trade and commerce estimates are realized.

This would mean a capital program totalling $8,800,000,000, four per cent above 1959 and slightly higher than the previous peak of $8,700,000,000 established in 1957, he said.

Addressing the annual meeting of B.C. Power shareholders, he said there was no reason to expect any significant increase in industrial prices unless trade unions force extraordinary wage increases.

An expected improvement in the already high level of consumer spending would be one of the main stimuli for good economic activity throughout the year.

INCREASED SPENDING

Spending by provinces and municipalities is expected to increase in 1960, he said, but federal government expenditures would be about the same as in 1959.

Ottawa was committed to the policy of containing expenditures and balancing its budget and this should relieve pressure on interest rates.

This, he added, would release capital for needs of the provinces, municipalities and private investment.

A decline in home construction was expected due to heavy demands for capital in other sectors of the economy.

Automobile sales across Canada were running above 1959 and this should prove the second best year on record, although below expectations.

He said British Columbia's forest products industry had shown a marked improvement through 1959 and would continue this trend in 1960, particularly in pulp and newsprint.

Mr. Grauer warned, however, that lumber and plywood demands may be off if housing slumps much in the United States.

LONDON—Prince Philip slogged through London's smelly dockland fish market early today after a night of playing "cops and robbers."

The Queen's husband paid a surprise visit to the market and spent about 40 minutes chatting and joking with the Cockney fish porters. He showed no reaction to the pungent smell of the market as he stepped among the crates of fish and climbed into a basement to see men chopping and cutting eels.

Wednesday night he paid a surprise visit to an east end police station and piled into a police car investigating a reported break-and-entry in the district. The case was a letdown—a store window had been broken but nothing was stolen.

Earlier he toured Scotland Yard and had his fingerprints taken.

LONDON — The head of Great Britain's League Against Cruel Sports says he thinks it is "a great shame" that Prince Philip lets 11-year-old Prince Charles watch fox hunts.

Lord Grey de Ruthyn, the league's president, told the group's annual meeting he thought fox hunts should be opposed "everywhere" and that the sport could be stopped if the Queen became president of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals.

LAS VEGAS — Coed Sandy Cherniss, whose 41-24-37 measurements distracted male students at San Francisco City College, is getting a chance to prove her distraction as an attraction.

The Sahara Hotel is putting her in the chorus line on a week's tryout basis.

If she measures up—talent-wise—she gets the $250-a-week job permanently, a hotel spokesman said.

Sandy drew national notice recently when San Francisco City College officials complained her natural endowments were diverting male students from their studies.

PORTLAND, Me. — A 12-year-old boy hired an advertising agency Wednesday to promote his shoe-shining business.

Keith L. Bennett signed a contract for $2 — approximately a day's gross business — with a Portland agency (Simonds Payson incorporated).

Richard E. Oransky, who made the sale, will be paid off in 10-cent shines, he said.

What does Keith get out of it? A four-color leaflet prepared by the agency's art department extolling his "quality shoe shining."

LONDON—That traditional menace of the roads, the woman driver, was Wednesday cleared of the blame for most accidents.

William Gissane, clinical director of the Birmingham Accident Hospital, writing in the British Medical Association's magazine, Family Doctor, said:

"The built-in urge of the male to take risks, entirely admirable in many fields of endeavor, is a main cause, perhaps the biggest cause, of road accidents."

He said women drivers are more careful than men.

MYSTERIOUS EAST — Akiko Kojima, Miss Universe of 1960, dropped in at a Paris hairdresser and emerged wearing this Gioconda smile.

ALGIERS (AP) — Police Wednesday received reports that a right-wing French political group has begun to reorganize underground. Documents intercepted by police indicate the organization is seeking funds to prepare armed resistance to President de Gaulle's regime.

SHOULD PAY TAXES TOO, SAYS SENATOR

Vote for Indians 'Discrimination'

OTTAWA (CP) — A Senate committee today approved the federal vote for treaty Indians although some senators expressed misgivings about providing "representation without taxation."

The banking committee, doing the job in the absence of a Senate committee on Indians, approved amendments to the Indian Act and the Canada Elections Act which enfranchise 60,000 Indians while allowing them to retain their non-taxable treaty status.

The bills, already approved by the Commons, now go to the joint Indian affairs committee of the two houses for study before final Senate passage and enactment.

Senator Thomas A. Crerar (L, Manitoba) said enactment of the bills would produce anomalies and inequities.

"If the Indian is to become a full citizen he must accept all the responsibilities and not receive these favors," he said. "We are setting up a discrimination between citizens and that is not what we want to do."

National Road Policy 'When Highway Done'

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—The federal government will consider adopting a comprehensive national highway policy once the Trans-Canada Highway is completed.

This was the promise made in the Commons Wednesday by Works Minister Walker as debate continued on a government resolution to extend for three years federal participation in the present Trans-Canada Highway program.

Noting that a number of speakers had called for a second East-West road, Mr. Walker said:

"With all the work still to be done on the first Trans-Canada Highway, let us put our house in order and complete it first. May I also say that our consideration then will not necessarily cover . . . only a second Trans-Canada Highway. We will consider a national highway policy when the time comes . . ."

The minister did not go into detail.

The resolution under consideration Wednesday provides for a three-year extension to May 31, 1964, in the period during which the federal government may make payments to the provinces under the present agreement, signed in 1949. It also provides for a $50,000,000 increase to $400,000,000, in the maximum federal contribution.

Debate on the resolution was adjourned for the second time.

Quebec MP Attacks Own Province

Wednesday's discussion was marked by Quebec member Maurice Bourget's blistering attack on the government of his province for its refusal to participate in the Trans-Canada program.

Quebec is the only province not taking advantage of the federal offer to pay 50 per cent of the cost of approved construction, plus 90 per cent of vital uncompleted gaps to a maximum of 10 per cent of the mileage in any given province. Quebec argues that the central government has no business in the highways field.

Mr. Bourget, Liberal member for Levis, said that figuring the Quebec mileage at one-eleventh of the national total, his province was passing up more than $30,000,000 available to it from the federal treasury.

Murray McFarlane (PC, Kootenay East) said the British Columbia tourist industry is losing millions of dollars annually because of inadequate highways, especially in mountainous regions.

'REAL STEP FORWARD' SAYS MAC ON RETURN

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said today "a real step forward" had been taken in his talks with President Eisenhower.

Macmillan, who returned from Washington today, said "of course there is a lot of work to be done, and no doubt a lot of problems to be overcome. But I really do believe we have taken a real step forward."

The Prime Minister declined to be specific about the "complete agreement" he and the President reached, since "I hope to make a statement in the House of Commons." Friday.

New Cut by U.S. In Bomarc Bases

WASHINGTON (CP) — The number of Bomarc anti-aircraft missile stations planned for the United States has been reduced to eight — all in the eastern parts of the country.

A spokesman for the United States Air Force, announcing this Wednesday, said this is the third stage of a progressive reduction in United States Bomarc plans during the last two years.

The original plan was for 32 stations from coast to coast, with an average of one Bomarc squadron to each station. Last spring the planning was reduced to 16 stations.

Together with the two squadrons planned for Canada, a total of 10 Bomarc squadrons are scheduled for the entire continent.

Last Monday Defence Minister Pearkes told the House of Commons at Ottawa that there would be 14 Bomarc stations in North America—about half of them equipped with the early type of liquid-fueled Bomarc-A with a range of 200 miles, and half with solid-propellent Bomarc-B models with a range of some 500 miles. The Bomarc-B is still under development, and has failed in seven tests.

Post Office Had Deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — A report from the auditor-general's office submitted Wednesday to the Commons public accounts committee noted that the post office had a deficit of $300,000 in 1958-59 compared with a surplus position of $5,800,000 in 1956-57.

It said this was due in large part to the deficit handling of second class mail. Handling costs increased about $4,000,000 to $28,000,000 in the two years while revenue remained almost static at $6,000,000.

BEFORE EYES OF TEACHER, FELLOW PUPILS

Girl, 14, Kills Youth To Protect Her Friend

ALICE, Texas (UPI)—Donna Dvorak had everything a 14-year-old could want — brains, beauty and a circle of close friends.

Today she is in a county juvenile home at Corpus Christi, charged with delinquency through murder. If she is convicted next Wednesday when her case comes up for trial, she will be sent to the state school for girls at Gainesville.

It was to protect one of her close friends that Donna jumped up in her ninth-grade science class Wednesday, pulled an automatic pistol from her loose-leaf notebook and killed Bobby Whitford, 16.

The pistol—a .22-calibre or a .45 frame—was big and heavy for a girl to handle, but Donna's first and only shot hit young Whitford in the back of the neck. He slumped over his desk about 30 feet away and died before an ambulance could rush him to a hospital.

A silence fell over the classroom when the shot rang out. Donna's classmates thought the crack of the pistol and Whitford's slumping over his desk was all a joke.

The teacher, George Franks, had been telling the class about soil care. In a few moments, however, the class realized it was not a joke and the 20 pupils fled from the room, some of them screaming.

Donna herself was in a state of shock. A doctor gave her some medicine to quiet her down so she could tell her story to the sheriff.

She said she "pointed the pistol" at young Whitford because he broke up some time ago with her best girl friend, Katie McCoy. He threatened to make the whole class dislike Katie.

Who Will Pay for It?

AT FIRST SIGHT THE REPORT of Mr. A. F. Paget, comptroller of water rights, seems to remove all doubts about the wisdom of the Peace River power scheme. A second look will show just the opposite conclusion.

As mentioned here before, Mr. Paget, an experienced official and able engineer, was not called upon to judge the economics of the Wenner-Gren promotion. His duty was to say only whether the Peace River could be physically dammed to generate electricity. He says it can.

It is for others to say whether the river should be dammed now, whether the scheme is economically practical. Even the Public Utilities Commission, to which the question will soon be presented, cannot give a final answer. Neither can the provincial Government. The final answer must be given by investors who will decide to finance, or not to finance, the scheme.

The real question, then, is whether Peace River power is bankable at the present stage of British Columbia's development. On that question Mr. Paget enters a sharp caveat. Quite rightly he sees that the Peace cannot be considered apart from the Columbia since the potential powers of both rivers would be sold for the most part in the same market of the lower mainland. Concerning which Mr. Paget says:

"The energy generated under these proposals could be marketed in B.C. within the times expressed (1968-1976) provided no other major resource development, either hydro or thermal, absorbs part of the market."

In other words, there is no room for the huge electrical output of the Peace at present if the Columbia is to pour power into the lower mainland at a relatively low price. There may be room for some Peace power in the early future, Mr. Paget seems to believe, but not for the volume proposed by the Wenner-Gren interests or anything like it.

This opinion is not in the least surprising, though it may be highly disagreeable to Mr. Bennett. For Mr. Mainwaring, chief salesman of the Peace scheme, has already admitted that it cannot go ahead if the Columbia is soon developed unless Peace power can be exported to the United States. And since the federal Government has flatly refused to allow any export, the Peace scheme hinges on the Columbia.

In short, Mr. Paget confirms the view of the federal Government that there can be no full development of the two rivers simultaneously. Yet Mr. Bennett has rested his whole case on the proposition that there can and must be simultaneous development—and without exports.

How he expects the resulting power surplus to be financed has never been explained. Nor is it likely to be explained before a provincial election in which Mr. Bennett will promise a double scheme rejected by Mr. Mainwaring and, in its economic aspects, not assessed by the water controller.

Timidity In Trade

TRADE BETWEEN CANADA and Russia, two highly industrialized countries, consists almost entirely of an exchange of wheat for raw furs. That seems to be a very limited concept of trade, and certainly one which keeps Canada's benefit to a minimum.

But that is only part of the anomaly of our trade with the Soviet Union. Heretofore we have insisted that trade agreements between the two countries should favor Canadian exports by a better than ten-to-one margin. We sold Russia $19 millions worth of wheat in 1958 while buying only $1.7 millions worth of furs and chemicals from that country.

We are now negotiating another trade agreement with Moscow, to follow the three-year-agreement now ended. And while Ottawa has reduced the degree of imbalance formerly in effect, it still insists on a two-to-one advantage—with Russia buying $2 worth of goods for each dollar's worth Canada imports from her.

Why this odd insistence on a one-sided arrangement? If we are to trade with Russia at all why should we try to impose such unequal conditions? It seems beyond doubt, too, that there must be a much wider variety of goods in each country that could be usefully imported by the other—and this quite apart from the so-called strategic goods which are considered to have military value.

Small wonder that Russia negotiates at length to try to ease Canada's restrictive conditions, and that Canada's trade with Russia, both inward and outward, is much less than it could well be.

Purchases from Russia and sales to that country must, of course, be made through the state trading authorities. Only in wheat and a few other commodities of which Canada's Government has become the owner as a result of agricultural and dairy-farm aid, can we match the Russian situation. All other Canadian exports must be through the usual private channels. But this should not present insuperable difficulties to businessmen determined to do business and to a Government determined to assist them.

One needs only to review the list of goods exchanged between Britain and Russia to see the great variety of trade that is possible. There is no enforced primitive level of wheat for furs in their relations.

The Canadian Government would do well to recognize that fair trade constitutes a gain to both parties; that Canada will gain both by what it buys and what it sells, and that artificial limitations on trade entail artificial limitations of the benefits to be derived.

B.C.'s Trans-Canada Stretch

THERE IS A GREAT DEAL OF difference between driving a mile of highway through British Columbia's mountains and laying down hardtop over a mile of flat prairie. Road construction in this province can be one of the hardest jobs of its kind in the world—and one of the most costly. Some stretches have run about $1 million a mile.

That must be remembered in any assessment of Mr. L. B. Pearson's remarks about British Columbia's failure to complete regional sections of the Trans-Canada Highway under the deadline set for this work.

But when this is said, the people of this province cannot avoid a second look at the whole issue of highway construction in British Columbia. They are told repeatedly of the magnificent accomplishments by the highway department—frequently by the minister himself. They know that many roads have been built on a basis that appeared to overlook priorities in the interest of political campaigns.

They know that federal funds were available for Trans-Canada construction when men were out of work and that the projects were not pushed, whatever may have been the reason.

Now they are reminded of the way the highway situation here looks to someone outside. Mr. Pearson notes that British Columbia burns its debt bonds. He could also have remarked on the magniloquent claims made by the Provincial Government on its highways—claims that sometimes imply a complete lack of road-building before Social Credit took office.

At the same time, as the Leader of the Opposition in Ottawa points out, British Columbia is behind schedule on the big road across the country.

Stay-at-Homes

THE LATEST ADVICE ON civil defence—and it is given by Defence Minister Pearkes—is to sit tight.

Against manned enemy bombers a city would have three hours warning, but against missiles the preparation time would be only fifteen minutes. This would not be enough time to evacuate a sizeable community.

The sit-tight advice confirms what a good many persons have believed all along. Rather than take to the roads with the prospect of being caught in a miles-long traffic jam, they have always maintained that they would retire to the basement and hope for the best.

That instinctive reaction, a common one throughout nature, is now shown to be the best one. And by all accounts he will be a wise man who decides to stay in the basement after the bomb as well. The post-bomb world upstairs won't be one many people will wish to return to.

LOOSE ENDS — By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Brief Candle in a Naughty World

IT is a pity, I sometimes think, that so few Canadians ever read the hansard of the House of Commons. But perhaps just as well. It would only make them sad. On the other hand, hansard might convince them that our statesmen can really think when you might suppose that Ottawa is still Goldwin Smith's sub-Arctic lumber village converted by royal decree into a political cockpit and endless sham-battle.

Hutchison

For example, the hansard addict (a rare species with an unusual vice) must have stumbled lately on an extraordinary passage which, so far as I know, has not seen the light of day.

HERE, on Page 1693, the lonely seeker finds Mr. Pearson advocating "government schemes of capital assistance to encourage industrial and economic re-development" in the less advanced areas of the nation.

Then Mr. Pearson utters a shattering thought: "If this should mean—and I suppose it would—heavier tax burdens, no Canadian has the right to complain," since his money is being used for these valuable purposes.

When the leader of the Opposition and of a major political party advocates tax increases this looks to an outsider like a case of man biting dog, the classic definition of news.

THE Ottawa correspondents evidently didn't see it that way. Mr. Pearson's great heresy passed unnoticed. Possibly the press gallery just couldn't believe its ears when no previous opposition leader had ever advocated anything but tax reductions (together, of course, with vast increases in expenditures, as promised by Mr. Diefenbaker.)

In uttering an unheard-of notion, Mr. Pearson was really stating the most obvious fact before us—taxes generally are going up. Every politician who can do first-primer arithmetic must know that but not many will admit it publicly. Mr. Pearson's cando must be unique and, in an opposition leader, almost incredible.

THE opposite theory—that the state can go on spending more and create the necessary money without higher taxes—is so firmly set in the public mind these days, has been so solemnly approved in the last two national election campaigns, that it is not to be lightly shaken.

We may be sure that most politicians will not even try to shake it. It is more likely that by the time of the next national election, two or three years hence, we shall enjoy a temporary illusion of lower taxes, as we enjoyed it, for a single year after the last election. The basic, cyclical law of politics compels tax reductions before the polls open and increases afterwards.

THE illusion is not only too temporary but too restricted. The federal Government is concerned only with its own taxes and their political effects, but the taxpayer is concerned with all taxes combined—federal, provincial and municipal, since they all come out of the same worn pocket. And if taxes are regarded as a single charge, which they are for the taxpayer, no one can fail to see where they are going. They are going up.

They may be disguised by such ingenious devices as Mr. Bennett's $50 grant and a rise in property assessments, by the inflation of the currency or otherwise, but they are going up.

Whether Mr. Pearson is right in believing they should go up for certain specific purposes like public investment is a matter of opinion. At least the weary traveller through the jungle of hansard's small print has seen a flash of honesty, a brief candle in a naughty world. The price of candles will come high.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Distortion?

Mr. Wilkinson, who has taken over management at SPCA thinks harsh treatment by his staff, of stray dogs, may be a distortion of fact, or a misunderstanding and he is making a personal investigation.

The pole used by his men for the control of difficult dogs, might be mistaken for a club.

He adds that unwanted animals are disposed of with high voltage electric current, instantly, without pain, the method now adopted in England.

The SPCA has taken over the administration of the present city bylaw at the risk of a great deal of criticism of which my original letter might be thought an example, but that was not my intention.

The End Is Not Yet

One of man's oldest rackets is founded on predicting the end of the world. In fact thousands of alarmists make a living instilling this fear in people who are gullible enough to listen.

Evangelists, missionaries, religious ranters of high-sounding phrases tell us that the "end is near" . . . "in these last days" . . . "there are signs" . . . "time is running out," ad nauseam.

Such cliches have been used since back beyond tradition; but now we hear that a nuclear war may blast everyone from the earth—no one will be left alive.

Some years ago this thinking became so intense that the Pope issued an encyclical condemning the use of a weapon so deadly in its effects that many feared it might depopulate the nations. It wasn't a bomb—it was the crossbow! The Pope was Innocent II in the year 1197.

Fear itself is a human instinct; one which can be exploited in many ways by governments as well as by clergy. Harassed taxpayers who see the end of the world as their only hope had best keep on paying taxes; the end is not yet.

The prophets of doom, and the tax collector, will always be with us while the earth and its trouble making humans will go on for ever, regardless.

Vitamin Prices

Could the person whose letter was published in The Times, March 14, over the signature "A Reader", inform me, through the paper, of the address of the New York vitamin supply firm which sells drugs at prices far below those in Canada?—B.B.

Charm of an Inn

It was with great interest that I read "The Exceptional Exception" by Silenus on the subject of inns.

The inn is as familiar a feature in the small towns and villages of England as is the castle, the church or the manor house, and has at all times reflected the habits and customs of the people, and furnishings and architecture of the various periods Tudor, Jacobean and Georgian, to name a few.

Inns reached their full peak of charm and interest in the lusty days of travel by stage coach along the turnpike roads of Georgian England and early Victorian days. Charles Dickens writes some delightful descriptions of inns in Pickwick Papers and Washington Irving in his Travels in England.

Inns saw their decline from 1830 onwards with the advent of the "Steam Horse" but today they are as popular as ever with the immense return to the road by means of the motor car. A stay in these inns is a must for every Canadian travelling in England for in the inn time has stood still and the visitor is carried away into a more leisurely and gracious age where inspiration and emotions are created instead of purely functional efficiency slavishly worshipped as is the modern tendency.

Humane Trap

I was interested to read in your edition of March 16 an article by Humphry Davy on the Conibear trap.

The article attributed a statement to the recreation minister, Mr. Earle C. Westwood, that the Conibear trap is now undergoing exhaustive research by the British Columbia Research Council. This is not strictly true.

Two years ago this society set up a humane trapping committee to carry out tests on this and other traps which claimed to be humane. The committee included such men as Dr. McTaggart Cowan, professor of biology at the University of British Columbia; Dr. James Hatter, chief biologist of the game commission, and Mr. P. R. U. Stratton, the chairman.

The committee has arranged for extensive tests to be made on the trap, both in the field and in the laboratory. The tests have shown that, whilst the Conibear trap is undoubtedly a great improvement over the old-fashioned and more cruel leg-hold trap, there is still, in our opinion, room for improvement in this trap.

To assist the committee in considering this area of improvement, we asked the B.C. Research Council to make certain engineering tests of the materials used in the present trap. When these tests have been completed we hope to guide and direct further research in the ways and means of making the Conibear trap 100 per cent humane for all animals: it is not 100 per cent at the present time.

I should add that we have been very glad to receive offers of assistance from Mr. Frank Conibear who invented the trap and who must be given the credit for breaking the barrier which has always surrounded the trapping of animals in this country.

Money for Missiles

By MICHAEL FRAYN

C. NORTHCOTE PARKINSON, in his analysis of the natural laws governing the functioning of bureaucracy, propounded the theory that the larger the sum of money to be voted the more quickly it is disposed of.

The committee in his illustration, you may remember, haggled endlessly over the estimates for a proposed bicycle shed because everyone on the committee knew what a bicycle shed was, but voted several million pounds for a nuclear power station without any discussion at all, because no one knew anything about nuclear power stations.

I hope Professor Parkinson is studying this country's defence policy, because it is providing the sort of thorough and continuous confirmation of his theories that makes even the most confident scientist a happier man.

Surplus Boots

In the debate which raged over the surplus army boots for example, everyone was only too happy to give the world the benefit of his opinions, because they all had a pretty clear idea of what an army boot was. On the other hand, a restful silence reigns over the question of defensive missiles, on which the country is wasting far more money than it will ever manage to get through by buying too many army boots.

Scarcely an eyebrow was raised even when the recent Report on Civil Appropriation Accounts revealed to some extent what was going on and how much these missiles were costing.

The rockets in question are ones which are fired from the ground at aircraft in the air. You can see that these are weapons which all three Services would like to have, for the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force all need to take a pot shot at passing aircraft from time to time. You might have gone on to think that a reasonable and economical way of proceeding would have been to issue the three Services with the same type of rocket.

The Government, however, thought differently, and gave permission to each of the Services to develop a surface-to-air missile of its own. This cheerful distribution of favors has proved somewhat expensive.

A Tidy Sum

The Navy's weapon, Seaslug (which was originally going to be knocked together for £1 million or £1.5 million), is now estimated as costing £40 millions—quite a tidy sum, even if you don't write the noughts down. The Army's rocket, Thunderbird (which was originally expected to cost £2.5 millions), is now expected to cost £27 millions.

The R.A.F. was originally going to make do with a version of the Thunderbird, then decided to develop a rocket of its own, called Bloodhound. The Report on Civil Appropriation Accounts does not mention any price for Bloodhound, but does give an estimate of £43 millions for the two versions of the R.A.F.'s air-to-air missile, Firestreak.

You may feel that £110 millions odd is a small price to pay to keep Britain safe from attack. Splendidly safe I suppose we shall be, if the Russians are obliging enough to attack us with aircraft.

If they fire rockets at us, however (and that would seem to be what the cunning devils have in mind), we might feel we had rather poured our £110 millions down the drain. Though I suppose by that time we shall be past caring.

Lethal Laughter

There is a great deal of talk about the humor of Yorkshire and Lancashire, and the crackling wit of Cockneys. But I have never heard anyone breathe a word about the jokiness of Lincolnshire. This is a pity, for the men of Lincolnshire, it turns out, are great funsters.

While the old-established rib-ticklers of Yorkshire and Lancashire, however, are mostly about mothers-in-law or people's trousers falling down, the subject that sets Lincolnshire folk rolling in the aisles is death.

At a village in the county called Market Deeping, for example, the graveyard is full up. Knocked sideways by the humor of this situation, the parish council has just passed a resolution stating that it "urges all parishioners not to die until the issue regarding the new cemetery is clarified."

But the rich yield of fun has not been completely harvested yet. The voting on the resolution was 28 to 1. The lone voice of opposition was raised by an undertaker, who declared that the parish council's policy would put him out of business.

He then went on to add, no doubt with tears of honest mirth running down his face, "I'm certain we face a very grave problem."

I suppose they must have been cracking jokes like this in Market Deeping for years. And if the state of their graveyard is anything to go by, it really slays them.

FED and DEF

Questions are being asked in the House about the Federal Telephone exchange. The exchange—in a concrete bunker beneath the streets of Westminster—is operated by the G.P.O. for 800 subscribers in the Cabinet, M.I.5, and the high places of the various ministries. People outside this charmed circle who dial FED are told they have a wrong number if they can't produce a likely code figure.

According to one report, the significant thing about the name "Federal," which was adopted during the war, is that if you read the first three letters backwards they spell DEF for Defence.

This has made me look at the names of telephone exchanges with fresh interest. What are the terrible wartime secrets behind them? Is Cunningham to be read as NUC for NUClear weapons, Regent as GER for GERm warfare, and Tottenham as TOT for TOTal destruction? And what was going on at the Mansion House exchange—NAMeless horrors?

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

Tufec

TWICE, this past winter, I've been lucky enough to see some of the pictures taken by Mr. Rod Bailey of the B.C. Department of Agriculture during his two years at Tufec, the Thailand Unesco Fundamental Education Centre in the town of Ubol (pronounced Oobon) in southern Thailand.

Ruth

Ubol is a town of about 30,000 people. But the centre at which Mr. Bailey worked is doing more than just help the people of Ubol. The influence of its teaching reaches out to villages all over the country.

For Thailand, Mr. Bailey told me, is divided into 71 provinces, and each province sends a team of six people to Tufec, which can take 11 teams a year, with each team coming in for a two-year course.

Although much of the instruction is general, each member of the team is interested in a special subject. These subjects include Agriculture, Home Economics, Health, Education, Social Welfare, and Village Craft and Construction.

★ ★ ★

Social Welfare, however, is not what we normally understand by that term. It consists of well-digging, road-making, organizing co-operatives, and the type of work which helps the social welfare of the community.

When they return to their villages and start teaching, the ex-students from Tufec work as a team. (But if health happened to be the main problem in a village, they'd all concentrate on health.)

Some of the most important work at Tufec is the organizing and running of 4-H clubs.

When Mr. Bailey's term at Tufec expired some months ago, the 4-H clubs had 350 members, most of whom were between the ages of 12 and 16.

They studied swine-keeping, poultry, gardens, homecraft and rice-growing.

Those of us who know the 4-H clubs in this country are familiar with their cloverleaf insigma and the four H's which stand for Head, Heart, Health and Hands.

The Thai members have the same four-leaf clover badge, but, instead of the four H's, the badge shows two heads of rice, and carries the two characters that form the Thai word meaning Young Farmers.

I wanted to know what kind of work was done with cattle. The main emphasis was on feeding, Mr. Bailey said. In Thailand, there is no pasture during the dry season from November to May, and hay was a new idea to the Thais.

The cattle, he said, were used mainly for transportation, since meat was a sideline, and milk was unheard of. (For farmer-readers of this column, the cattle's scientific name is Shinhalas, and they faintly resemble the Brahma breed, although they are much smaller.)

What, I asked Mr. Bailey, did he consider the most important qualification for a Canadian working at Tufec?

Being adaptable was important, he said, and naturally you had to be able to deliver the goods as far as your job was concerned. But equally important were the human qualities of tact, understanding, patience, dignity, and a genuine respect for the people, their culture, and their religion.

"We made such good friends," said Mrs. Bailey. "Saying goodbye to them was the hardest thing of all. And not being able to see how some of the half-completed projects turned out. One gets so interested."

In these days, when the world often seems overfull of hate and horror, I think it's reassuring to hear about a place like Tufec where people of different nationalities are working together on the vitally important and practical task of increasing food production.

The aims and atmosphere that lie behind some of Mr. Bailey's pictures make them good stuff for young and old.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Blood Vessel Control

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

People who are suffering with a severe form of high blood pressure ask if a "lumbar sympathectomy" would do them any good. In a lumbar sympathectomy certain "involuntary nerves" which regulate the size of the big blood vessels in the abdomen and thighs and legs, are cut through an incision (cut) in the middle of the back. With the removal of nervous spasm in the blood vessels, the blood pressure may fall, and in some cases, the patient is much better. His life may be prolonged, and serious symptoms may clear up.

Alvarez

I must keep saying "may" because some persons are helped and many are not. What is said is that even an expert cannot always predict which person will get well and which will not. Two facts are pretty well established: one is that it rarely helps to operate on the older persons, and it seldom helps to operate on persons who have the type 4, or "malignant" form of high blood pressure. There are some tests which can be made by an expert to show whether or not a sympathectomy is likely to do any good. The operation has lost popularity in the last 20 years.

I get many letters from expectant mothers who worry themselves sick with the fear that something they saw will mark their unborn child. Actually, today, physicians are satisfied that children in the womb are never marked. Perhaps, when I say this, a woman whose child was born with a hare-lip, will tell me that in the eighth month of her pregnancy she was frightened by a rabbit which, in her garden, jumped out from under a bush. This woman does not know that her child's hare-lip was formed during the first weeks of her pregnancy when the infant's tiny face was being formed. Expectant mothers should stop worrying about getting their child marked. That is an "old wives' tale."

Some young people write to ask why they hate everyone, and often feel full of anger, and even a desire to attack people. I sympathize deeply with them: it must be awful to go through the world, full of hates and dislikes and animosities. Some men and women tell me they never could marry anyone, or even share an apartment with a friend because of their frequent flare-ups of anger and dislike.

Last year I read, one right after the other, some 75 books written by people who had been psychotic or epileptic or, for a while, insane, and one thing that impressed me greatly was the confession of many of them that they hated everyone. For 50 years, I have noted that when I have a psychotic person in the officer and ask, "How do you get along with your family?" he is likely to say, "We all hate each other, and when we get together, we get into a fight." If, on the other hand, I ask a nice, sensible, well-adjusted and sane person about his family, he may say, "We are an unusually affectionate clan; we all like each other and we even love our in-laws!"

It would seem, then, that it is a sign of sanity to like people, and it is a sign of some tendency to psychosis when a person is full of hates, animosities, and feelings of aggression. If I were to find myself full of hates, I would go straight off to get electroencephalograms made; these are records of the tiny electric currents that are constantly being formed in the brain. I have seen many unhappy, hating people with electric records which were typical of an epileptic; and in some of these cases the giving of Dilantin, or some other "anticonvulsive" drug made the person much calmer, much more friendly, less irritable and jumpy, and much happier.

Quite a few men who have had a heart attack, and who occasionally get angina pectoris (severe pain in the chest due usually to exertion) are distressed because the pain interferes with their sex life. SYNOPSIS — Although the strong flow of cool, moist air from the ocean continues without interruption there are signs that it is weakening in these latitudes. A disturbance embeded in the flow will move inland this afternoon and will cause scattered showers in the interior. The next system in the series will be rather difficult to time but it seems most likely that its effects will begin to be felt along the north coast Friday afternoon and along the south coast in the evening.

Relations With Asia Topic for Conference

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's role in relationships between Asia and the West will be discussed here this week at a three-day regional conference of the United Nations Economic, Social and Cultural Organization.

The conference, opening today, is a part of the Canadian UNESCO commission's 10-year East-West project, intended to extend the range of understanding between persons from Asian and western cultures and is the first regional conference held in Canada.

Principal speaker is Lambertus N. Palar, Indonesian ambassador to Canada, who will address a public meeting tonight on "Asian attitudes toward the West."

Remainder of the conference, including a panel discussion Friday afternoon and study groups Friday and Saturday, is open only to persons who register Friday morning.

SOLUTION TO BIDS FOR INDEPENDENCE

Tanganyika Way Answer To Violence in Africa?

OTTAWA (CP)—As an alternative to the violence commonly associated with African independence movements, Julius K. Nyerere offers the Tanganyika way.

It emphasizes peaceful agitation as opposed to eruptive demonstrations and conspiracy; unity of purpose among the African, European and Asian communities rather than enmity and suspicion.

Mr. Nyerere, president of the Tanganyika African National Union and leader of the 30-man opposition in the territorial legislature, gave an insight during a two-day visit here into the workings of Tanganyika's independence machine.

In printed and oral statements, he outlined the Tanganyika way, proudly noting that it has obviated the nightmarish tug-of-war betwen ruler and subjects that has taken place in other independence-seeking territories.

NEARBY VIOLENCE

Tanganyika, a 362,000-square-mile trust territory administered by Britain, is bordered on three sides by countries where the march of nationalism has ben marked by bloodshed.

To the north is Kenya, to the west the Belgian Congo, to the south the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. On Tanganyika's eastern doorstep is the Indian Ocean.

"Independence now can be taken for granted," says Mr. Nyerere, 37-year-old son of a tribal chief. He doesn't attempt to predict how soon it will come but it may be within five years. He adds that he is certain an independent Tanganyika would decide to remain in the British Commonwealth.

A Roman Catholic, father of two children, and regarded as one of the ablest of Africa's autonomy-seekers, he stands a good chance of being prime minister.

TANGANYIKANS FIRST

The essential ingredient of Tanganyika's evolutionary success has been what he termed the readiness of three main ethnic groups to think of themselves primarily as Tanganyikans instead of Africans, Asians or Europeans.

Of the country's 9,000,000 people, fewer than 100,000 are not African—22,000 Europeans and 75,000 Asians.

Non-Africans opposed to colonialism have supported the African nationalists and accepted their leadership rather than attempt to follow the pattern of minority domination that has caused bitterness in neighboring territories.

The non-Africans, says Mr. Nyerere, have recognized that in the final analysis their best guarantee for the future is the goodwill of the majority.

SWEPT 1958 ELECTIONS

When the first elections were held in 1958, the African National Union formed four years earlier by Mr. Nyerere put up its own candidates for the 10 African seats on the legislative council and supported certain candidates of the other two races for the 10 European and 10 Asian seats. Union and Union-supported candidates swept the field.

At present the 30 elected members—23 others are nominated by the British governor—form the official opposition to the colonial administration.

After the September elections the legislature will be made up of 71 elected members. The executive council or cabinet will have a majority of elected members, presumably led by Mr. Nyerere as prime minister. The governor will still hold the right of veto.

INCOME TAX TIPS

(This is the first of a series on how to make out your income tax returns and get refunds and best possible concessions. It is prepared by Gordon A. Green, partner in the firm of Bailey Monteith Holms & Co., chartered accountants, in collaboration with income tax officials. It will continue daily.)

By GORDON A. GREEN

Lovely weather we're having! But don't grab that rake or lawn mower yet.

Every year numerous Victorians make the same mistake. They see the sun shine in March and all of a sudden garden fever strikes.

If these people only realized it, they could save their backs and their pocketbooks by following this suggestion:

Put first things first! The gardens will grow anyway, so unfortunately, will interest on unpaid income taxes.

Maybe you have a refund like thousands of others, but it isn't doing you any good until you prove it to the Income Tax Department.

The sooner you calculate

GORDON A. GREEN

your income tax position for 1959 the better. If you have a refund coming, then claim it as soon as possible.

Every taxpayer would be well advised to take the following steps immediately, as a preliminary to filing his or her 1959 tax returns.

1. Pick up your T-4 slip from your employer (two copies). These slips are statements showing your gross earnings, income tax deducted, taxable allowances, etc.

2. Obtain two blank copies of a 1959 income tax return. (One to send to the department, and one to keep for your own records.) There are two kinds of returns for individuals. Most persons should use the T-1 Short. Others should use the T-1 General. Make sure you get the correct one.

3. Sort out all your receipts for 1959 covering charitable donations, medical expenses, union or professional dues, registered retirement saving plan premiums, etc. Check these receipts and if you are missing any, obtain the missing receipts from the party to whom you made payment?

Got a slight headache?

Don't worry, you got through last spring successfully and soon you'll know the good or bad news this year.

$2,430,000 Taxes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Estate taxes on the $5,400,000 Col. Victor Spencer estate are estimated at $2,430,000. The estate was filed this week for probate. Income tax officials said the tax would depend on total charitable donations, which are exempt.

EAST GERMAN FARMERS RIOT OVER RED RULING

BERLIN (UPI)—Farmers in three East German villages rioted Sunday over Communist attempts to spur collectivization, it was reported today.

The reports, brought to the West by refugees fleeing from the Communist East, said farmers beat up local Communist officials who had called a rally aimed at getting them to give up their private land and join collectives.

White 'Moderates' Rounded Up With Negroes In S. Africa Raids

By GERALD CLARK
(Special To The Times)

JOHANNESBURG—Among the more than 120 prominent political leaders arrested Wednesday, many were whites.

Almost the entire executive of the Liberal party, including the national chairman, Peter Brown, were picked up in predawn raids on their homes in Johannesburg, Durban and Pretoria.

The Liberal party, a multiracial organization, stands for equal votes and equal rights of whites and blacks.

Hearing the news, Alan Paton, author of "Cry the Beloved Country," and national president of the Liberal party, said: "I am feeling a bit ashamed of myself for not being arrested. I must have slipped up somewhere in my activities."

Paton indicated he would now be spurred on with greater vigor to halt oppressive government measures which have led South Africa into its gravest crisis.

It was the first time members of the Liberal party, who include in their ranks white professors and doctors, were arrested for political reasons.

At the home of one Liberal, John Lang, an attorney, the police were asked to produce a warrant before searching. They said it was unnecessary under the Public Safety Act. They gave Lang time to pack his clothes.

Some of the detainees were warned they would be held for more than 48 hours before appearing in court. Outside the central police station in Marshall Square, wives of arrested men stood around with suitcases to send in to their husbands' cells. They talked in subdued voices.

In quick reaction to the developments, insurance companies announced they are doubling their rates on riot insurance.

The stock market plunged sharply as soon as newspaper extras appeared.

Pass Suspension a 'Crafty Hoax'?

Top African leader picked up in the raid was Albert Luthuli, president of the African National Congress.

In an interview not long before his arrest, Luthuli touched on the fears many natives express: that the government, in temporarily suspending arrests for pass offences, may be pulling a crafty hoax.

As soon as the current tensions die down, the police may be instructed to start making arrests again for trivial infractions.

"If only 500,000 burn their passes," said Luthuli, "the police might be able to put that number in jail. But they cannot do it if all of us burn our passes."

Luthuli's outspoken words can only be intepreted as confirming that Africans onw feel themselves genuinely on the march.

They are not going to let Prime Minister Henrik Verwoerd resume the rigidity which at the moment he appears to have lost.

"We are at war with racial discrimination," says Luthuli. 'This is a serious struggle. Anything can happen."

Does that imply that natives are preparing to take up arms?

Luthuli discounted this notion as "quite impractical." But he left no doubts that a series of strikes, such as the one that crippled white South Africa earlier this week and is still tying up much of Capetown, will be a prime weapon until Africans attain their ultimate objective — universal suffrage and equal rights with whites.

Unlike the other major native groups, the militant Pan-Africanist Congress which demands the vote by 1963, Luthuli is content to see it patiently "in our lifetime."

To Luthuli apartheid was recently dramatically pinpointed when one of his daughters was married. He invited an old friend a white clergyman, to the wedding.

The clergyman had to obtain a permit to enter the settlement; he also had to pledge to the authorities that he would not lower himself by sharing the black man's food but would bring his own refreshments.

Luthuli, however, does not allow bitterness to cloud his awareness of reality.

He says: "I like to think well of white South Africa. I hope that when we exert enough pressure through our policy of passive resistence the whites will agree to discuss our country's problems.

"I also like to think that the continent of Africa, which is in the process of development, can lead the way in showing how people of different races can live together," he continued. "It could be our contribution to the history of mankind."

NEGROES FEUDING AMONG SELVES

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) —A major rift developed Wednesday between South Africa's two main Negro political organizations.

The Pan-Africanist Congress warped the African National Congress to keep "hands off our campaign" to end the government's identity passbook laws.

The PAC, a militant breakaway group from the ANC, was formed last April. It claims a membership of about 31,000.

William Jolobe, who organized PAC's campaign against the passbooks, said in a statement that the ANC "opposed our campaign and called it sensational, ill-defined and ill-planned."

RESULTS IN RIOTS

Campaign was waged against a law forcing all Negroes to carry passbooks. It resulted in major riots and the fatal shooting of 71 Negroes nine days ago. Later, the government temporarily suspended the law.

Jolobe blasted former Zulu chief Albert Luthuli, head of the ANC, for belatedly backing the Congress.

Luthuli, he said, "now has the courage which he lacked for over 12 years to burn his pass — after passes had been suspended."

Jolobe added: "The African people will take their instructions from the leadership of the Pan-Africanist Congress which has led them so far on the road to freedom and independence."

Luthuli was arrested Wednesday in a roundup of 150 African leaders campaigning for Negro rights. Last weekend, he urged all Negroes to burn their passes and stay home Monday in mourning for those killed in the rioting.

The ANC claims a membership of more than 8,000,000.

ON SOUTH AFRICA

Canada's Views Known to UN

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was urged Wednesday to make representations to the UN Security Council about action with regard to violence and arrests in South Africa.

However, Prime Minister Dieferbaker said in the Commons it isn't the usual practice for non-members of the Security Council to make such representations to council members.

Canada's views on the South African situation are known to UN members and are clearly understood, he added.

Mr. Diefenbaker was replying to Hazen. Argue, CCF House leader, who suggested representations to the council in view of the "worsening" situation in South Africa and arrests of white members of opposition political parties.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Excess Accessory

The accessory bug borrowed from Detroit has affected the boating industry to the point where in some circles a hull is only a bare and meagre start toward a life on the ocean wave.

Just for curiosity's sake a Los Angeles marina operator decided recently to see how many accessories could be jammed aboard one boat to make it fully equipped. He managed more than 70, then got the surprise of his life.

The boat chosen for the experiment here was a rugged 18-foot offshore lapstrake day cruiser. Then the dealer began to add on a few essentials.

First a 60-horsepower outboard was mounted, with remote throttle and shift controls. A steering wheel and hydraulic linkage was also installed. A convertible top was added and seat cushion-life preservers were placed aboard. For required equipment, a forward red and green plus a stern light were necessary, as well as a fire extinguisher and horn.

Stow the Anchor

Certain other items are essential for safety. An anchor on the forward deck and a davit to make it easier to handle and stow were added. The anchor line was passed back through fair-leads to a winch, then down a deck pipe into a storage locker below.

On the foredeck a pulpit railing was bolted. Also a mooring bit, chocks to hold the mooring lines, and a small flag staff and pennant were rigged.

For the windshield area there were a spotlight, windshield wipers and electric horn. On the dash board appeared a tachometer, switches, speedometer, barometer, clock, battery charge indicator and two dash lights. Stored conveniently near the helmsman were a waterproof flashlight and holder, signal flares, boat hook and holder, paddle, fog horn, and four grab handles for rough going. Four adult-size life jackets were also shelved here, plus a bailer and bilge pump, registration holder and tool box.

Slightly frivolous perhaps, but pleasant were a mounted water container and plastic glasses with a special rack to keep them from spilling, and dozens of other gadgets.

Basics stashed aboard for the fisherman were bait net, plastic bucket, gaff, and rod holders.

The dealer totalled the cost and found the rig reached $4,800 for boat, accessories, motor, and trailer.

The rig was placed in the parking lot in front of the dealer's marina. All the next morning it was admired, but by afternoon a customer insisted that since it was ready to go, he had to buy it on the spot so that he could launch it and drive away.

Australia's Queensland state sugar mills produced a record 1,200,000 tons of refined sugar in 1959.

Sugar Firms Ready For Probe

WINNIPEG (CP)—Evidence was given Wednesday that months before two B.C. companies gained control of the Manitoba Sugar Co., they were working out an explanation they could present to combines investigators if the need arose.

B.C. Sugar Refining Co. and British Columbia Refinery Ltd. are charged with operating a combine. This trial started last week. A letter sent by a director of one firm to its president, read in Court of Queen's Bench, indicated that a defence against a combines charge was being considered four years ago.

TAKING GAMBLE

The letter, written May 24, 1956, by H. F. Angus, a director of B.C. Sugar Refining, was sent to Forrest Rogers, president of the firm.

In the letter, Mr. Angus said: "I agree we are taking a gamble. But I think that we are backing the main chance. The option, while it is expensive, is the least provocative way of making a bid for control of the Manitoba Sugar Co.

"Now, everything depends on the view which the combines investigation people take of the transaction . . ."

He said the firm might give consideration to guranteeing that sugar prices in a non-competitive area would not exceed prices in a competitive area.

BEST ACTION

"On the balance, though I agree that we are taking the best action possible in the circumstances, but I'm not as optimistic about the outcome as you are."

Mr. Angus said: "It is very tempting for the combines people to pin everything on the hard fact of combination and so to pose as vigilant watchdogs of the public interest without inquiring too closely where that interest lies."

"Our weakest point is that we are trying to eliminate an embarrassing competitor; our strongest that the probable effect of intensive competition would be rather to squeeze the primary producer than to benefit the consumer.

A FORMER VICTORIA ARMY OFFICER, Capt. A. W. Walker, has been promoted to the rank of major, it was announced at Ottawa today. Major Walker is an officer in the Royal Canadian Engineers and is serving at the Army Survey Establishment, Ottawa.

TREASURE FOUND

$100,000 In Gold Pieces

MOUNT PROSPECT, Ill. (AP) — News of a huge treasure find in the backyard of a wealthy deceased resident threw this quiet Chicago suburb into a dither Wednesday.

The treasure, all in gold pieces, totals nearly $100,000. It was found with the aid of a map, buried under two fruit trees, where it apparently had been secreted during the last 10 years.

Mount Prospect, about 17,000 population, is 26 miles northwest of Chicago.

The hoard belonged to Stanley R. Pierce, wealthy Chicago investment broker. He died Christmas Day at the age of 67.

Before the treasure find about two weeks ago, Pierce's estate had been valued at about $500,000.

The gold was found by representatives of the Continental Illionis National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, executor of the estate.

NOBODY EVER BUILT ONE LIKE THIS BEFORE

In the new Triumph Herald we've built a miracle. The Herald is a miracle of inspired styling by world-famous designer Michelotti. It's a miracle of unbelievable comfort, from a driver's seat that adjusts 45 different ways—for leg-room, height, and tilt—to a ride that can't be bettered, because the Herald has independent suspension on all four wheels. It's a miracle of driving ease, with light, sensitive steering that lets you park in a space only inches longer than the car. The Herald is a miracle of safety, with control-tower visibility, impactoscopic steering column, safety crush dash, extra large front brakes: it's a miracle of economy, with normal greasing eliminated for once a year maintenance, and 35-40 m.p.g. Plus the straight luxury of carpets, heater, windshield washers. And biggest miracle of all, the Triumph Herald costs only $1895. To appreciate this miracle, you need to drive the Herald. Why don't you do just that! At your Standard-Triumph dealer's.

Cats Reach Final Round; Macauley Sinks Totems

BEV WAS A BUSY BOY

Goalie Bev Bentley didn't always have this much protection from Seattle mates during final game of Western Hockey League semifinal playoff at Memorial Arena Wednesday night. In fact, Seattle netminder had busy night and blocked 37 shots in vain as Victoria Cougars pinned 2-0 defeat on Totems to advance into final. Bentley guards short side of goal while Seattle's Marc Boileau kicks puck away from stick of Cougar Arlo Goodwin (10). Bill Davidson (5) and Les Hunt (2) of Seattle are ready to step in if needed. Goodwin later scored second Victoria goal. (Times photo)

SIDELINE SLANTS BY Doug Peden

Most of the excitement and shouting in the Victoria dressing room had subsided but Hal Laycoe was still wearing a worried frown and pacing nervously up and down.

Serious-looking Hal didn't look like the manager-coach of a club that had just wrapped up a Western Hockey League semifinal playoff in four straight games. Actually, he was happy enough but he was just trying to unwind the nervous tension that comes with playoffs.

Laycoe perhaps works harder than most at his coaching chores. He plans far ahead and switches lines during each game, trying to get the maximum mileage out of talent at his disposal during every situation in each game. And anyone who has watched his worried antics during a game knows he suffers with his players.

And if he was up to his usual tricks, half an hour after the Totems had been ousted, Hal was already scheming ways to make things miserable for the Canucks when the final opens at Vancouver Saturday night.

"They'll call this four-straight win a surprise," Hal said, "but I wasn't really surprised. Looking back over the season, this club has run into a lot of bad breaks and didn't deserve to finish behind Seattle.

"But the players always had the knack of winning the games they wanted to win. They always seemed able to rise to the occasion when they needed a victory.

"I believe my guys were really up for the series. They just wanted to win and everyone played very well. They were too much for Seattle."

It Rates As a Solid Coaching Victory

Laycoe didn't mention that the two most important chores for a coach are training his charges to play sound hockey through the season and then getting them mentally and physically ready for important games. Hal did just that and the impressive triumph over Seattle can go down in the books as a solid coaching victory without taking anything away from the Cats, who undoubtedly played their best hockey of the campaign in the four playoff games.

And making the win all the sweeter for the Cougar boss was the fact that the two men he picked up as replacements late in the season came through in great style. Rookie Gerry Goyer and veteran Paul Masnick were among the most useful Cats in the semifinal. Goyer paced the team in scoring with two goals and three assists, Masnick chipped in with a goal and two assists and both played a big part in disrupting the Seattle attack with their hustling, puck-hounding efforts.

Seattle coach Keith Allen gave full marks to the Cats.

"Two of the games were real close and could have gone either way," said the unhappy Allen. "But they were easily the better club. Anytime my boys get only four goals in four games you can bet they've been up against a real good club.

"Checking was the big thing. They not only kept my forwards under control, but the forechecking of the Victoria forwards forced my defencemen into a lot of errors. They just beat us, that's all.

"It should be an interesting series with Vancouver."

Even If Just for Day, Scots Want Top Berth

Possession of the berth may be only a temporary matter, but Canadian Scottish hooters have their sights set on first place in the Victoria and District Football League race.

The improving Scots, slated to tackle Victoria West at Royal Athletic Park in Saturday's only league match, finally have a chance to vault past Evcoes.

Evcoes, Province Cup finalists who lead Scottish and Ladysmith by a single point, would be dropped into the runner-up slot by a Scottish triumph. However, Evcoes are expected to add another two points to their total when they step back into league action Sunday against Esquimalt at Central Park.

In other Sunday games, Heaneys will play Kickers at Haywood Avenue, Brodies and Navy will tangle at Naden and Thistles will face Gorge Hotel at Reynolds Road.

All matches start at 2 p.m.

Stirring Rally By 'Y' Squad

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver YMCA, facing elimination, staged a stirring fourth-quarter drive that yielded 30 points to nip Windsor AKO, 77-75, in the third game of the Canadian junior men's basketball championship Wednesday night.

The comeback was built on a solid team scoring performance, especially from the foul line, that resulted in every YMCA player on the floor sharing in the last-ditch scoring drive.

Windsor, which leads the best-of-five series 2-1, held quarter leads of 22-15, 34-31 and 52-47 and didn't fall behind until there were five minutes to play.

The lead changed hands six times before guard Ray Nosella sank the winning basket with 16 seconds remaining.

Ken's Hat-Trick Paces Dorman's

Ken Stewart fired three goals Tuesday night at Memorial Arena to pace Dorman's to a 6-2 win over Cantin's in the first of a two-game, total-goal Independent Hockey League final.

Don McIntosh added two goals for the winners.

DO-OR-DIE FOR HAWKS

Lots of Hope ---But No Time

CHICAGO (CP)—Time, but not hope, is running out on Chicago Black Hawks in their Stanley Cup semi-final battle with the defending champion Montreal Canadiens.

They've dropped their first three games in the best-of-seven series and observers figure Chicago will need a miracle to take the next four.

But these things have happened before.

In 1942, for example, Toronto Maple Leafs lost three straight before catching fire to knock over Detroit Red Wings in the next four games.

DID IT IN 1952

Canadiens haven't lost four straight in a playoff since 1952 when Detroit breezed through the cup series in the minimum of eight games, taking Toronto in four in the semifinals and Canadiens four in a row in the finals.

The Hawks and Montreal play their fourth game tonight. Victoria television viewers will be able to catch the game on channels 2 and 6, starting at 7 p.m.)

Toronto and Detroit, tied 2-2 in the other semifinal, don't play until Saturday night, when they meet in Toronto.

The main topic of conversation in both Detroit and Toronto camps has been goalie Terry Sawchuk of the Wings. Some people a month ago said his big-league days were numbered.

DIFFERENT TUNE

But now the tune is changed. Sawchuk is the big reason for Wings' surprising showing in the playoffs.

"He's been tremendous," enthused Detroit coach Sid Abel. "I don't know where we'd be without him.

Don't forget his play at the start of the season got us off to that fast start. Without it, we never would have made the playoffs."

Sawchuk proved Abel's point in Tuesday's game, which Wings won, 2-1, in overtime. He made two sensational saves on left-winger Frank Mahovlich who scored the winning goals in Leaf's 4-2 and 5-4 victories. He also robbed Ron Stewart of possible goals three times and stopped a shot by Gerry Ehman that had goal written all over it.

Solid Batting Saves English

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters) — An unbroken seventh wicket stand of 90 between Jim Parks (55) and Mike Smith (35) saved England from possible disaster on the fifth day of the final cricket test against West Indies here Wednesday.

At close of play, England was 238 for six, giving it a lead of 293 with only five hours left for play today.

England, which needs only a draw to win the five-match series, made 393 in its first innings and West Indies replied with 338 for eight declared.

England was in a desperate position when three wickets tumbled for 12 runs to make six down for 148, but solid batting by Smith and Parks, who was almost caught after scoring five, brought about the rally.

Junior Faces Change

CALGARY (CP) — Two new Calgary junior teams have been entered in the Alberta Junior Football League, including an amalgamation of the Bronks and Mustangs. The other is Mount Royal College.

NEW RACING ASSOCIATION ON PRAIRIES

EDMONTON (CP)—A body which will govern racing in Alberta and Saskatchewan this summer was designed at a meeting Wednesday night of the Western Canada Racing Association.

T. H. McLeod of Regina, WCRA president, said the new body will represent the horse owners, the race track operators and the "public at large with domination from no particular group."

The exhibition associations of Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton withdrew a week ago from the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders and Racing Association, governing body for racing on the prairies for the last 35 years.

Dash of Sherry Good for Dodgers

(By UP International)

There's nothing like a dash of sherry to whet the Los Angeles Dodgers' appetites for the new season.

And so the world champions are feeling like they can do it again because Larry Sherry seems ready to pick up right where he left off in the world series last fall. Then, it may be recalled, he appeared in all four Dodger victories and gained credit for two of them.

The hard-throwing 24-year-old made his fourth appearance of the spring Wednesday and picked up the win in the Dodgers' 7-2 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves. Sherry yielded two runs in the first inning but shut out the Braves for the next five. He yielded a total of four hits, walked one batter and struck out four.

In 19 innings this spring, Sherry has allowed six earned runs for a fine 2.74 earned run mark. Larry didn't report to the Dodgers until mid-season in 1959 but wound up with a 7-2 record and won the first playoff game with the Braves before going on to smother the Chicago White Sox in the series.

Sherry helped his own cause with a two-run single in the second inning and Wally Moon hit a three-run double in the fourth to spark the Dodgers' 11-hit attack. The Dodgers combed Joey Jay for nine hits and all their runs in four innings.

Mickey Mantle hit his first homer of the spring but there was more bad news for the New York Yankees as the St. Louis Cardinals downed them, 6-2. It was the Cardinals' fourth victory in five games with the Yankees and clinched the spring series. It was the Yankees' 12th defeat in 18 games.

The Cincinnati Reds outslugged the Baltimore Orioles, 12-9, the Washington Senators nipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 11-10, the White Sox beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Francisco Giants, 13-10, and the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians, 5-2.

Gus Bell hit two doubles and a single and Billy Martin had a homer and a single to lead the Reds' 17-hit attack which overcame a 7-0 Baltimore lead in the first two innings. Martin's two-run homer climaxed a five-run blast in the fifth that produced a 7-7 tie. Dave Nicholson hit a 425-foot homer and a run-producing single for Baltimore.

COWICHAN THREAT

Whan Knocking Again

If and when the Times Trophy moves away from the grasp of greater Victoria golfers, it probably will be shipped to 733 Marchmont Road, Duncan.

Up-Island golfers have made some serious bids for the Times Vancouver Island Open championship in the past, but nobody has knocked longer or louder than Gordie Whan, the Marchmont Road resident.

He's knocking again this year, qualifying for Sunday's first round of match play at Gorge Vale by firing a 79 at Royal Colwood last week.

The first hurdle won't be an easy one. The 42-year-old Cowichan Club ace meets Bill McColl, former Open title holder from Colwood, in what could certainly be one of the most interesting of the 16 first-round matches. Both are three-handicappers.

The Duncan logger is still looking for his first major Island victory. Last year's zone champion, Gord has taken part in every Times Open except one.

Many of Gord's Island rivals feel certain he would have made the grade before now if he had taken up the game at an earlier age. He golfed for teens but retired from the fairways until after his 32nd birthday.

When looking ahead to his meeting with McColl, would regard Sunday's game in a much happies vein if "my putting game would improve."

"I've got no complaints about my tee shots and most of my irons were working last week," he said Wednesday. "But there's plenty of room for improvement on the greens."

But Gord will still be knocking on that door Sunday. And, who knows, this may be the year it opens for him.

Cougars Win Four Straight; Another Shutout for Marcel

Cougars 2, Totems 0

By DOUG PEDEN

Doug Macauley may feel like a spendthrift today but the slender Victoria veteran has the satisfaction of knowing he paid for the last lap of the Cougars' trip into the Western Hockey League final.

It was Macauley's third-period goal at Memorial Arena Wednesday night that produced a 2-0 triumph over Seattle and made it a four-straight march past the Totems in the best-of-seven semi-final playoff.

Now the Cougars, winners by 3-2, 5-0 and 4-2 counts in the first three games of the series, step into the title round against the Canucks at Vancouver Saturday night.

Second and third games of the final are scheduled at Los Angeles next Wednesday and Thursday and the clubs then move to Memorial Arena to continue the best-of-nine argument for the President's Cup.

Macauley's goal, snapping a scoreless deadlock at 4.23 of the third session, was all the sizzling Cougars needed to complete their spectacular march into the final. But Arlo Goodwin spiked down the lid of the Totem coffin and ensured a happy ending for the 4,012 fans.

Arlo fired the puck into an open net with 28 seconds remaining after Seattle coach Keith Allen went gambling for the equalizer by lifting goalie Bev Bentley for an extra attacker more than a minute from the end.

It Was Sweet Revenge for Cougars

Apparently expecting a pass, Hunt leaned toward Goodwin and Macauley, shifting quickly to the right, snapped a rising 25-footer that whistled hip-high past Bentley on the long side.

"I've been saving that goal for a long time," said Macauley, who was still being thumped on the back by his mates after the game. "I was beginning to wonder if I was ever going to get around to using it."

Busy with defensive work on Victoria's checking line and toiling steadily with Doug Anderson in a penalty-killing role, Macauley managed only 11 goals during the regular season and it was the first time in six campaigns with the Cats that he has dropped below the 22-goal mark.

But if he was saving more than his usual quota of tallies, all the Cats agree that Macauley couldn't have picked a better time to make a withdrawal on his goal account.

The four-game sweep was sweet revenge to the Cougars, who faced the Totems in the semifinal round a year ago and were bounced out in straight games as the Seattle club went on to wrap up the playoff crown.

Reaching the final round for the fourth time in their WHL history, the Cougars must be rated solid contenders to add a second playoff title to the one they won under Roger Leger in the 1950-51 session.

Proved Point In Dramatic Fashion

Macauley was undoubtedly the hero, but as in the three previous games, it was an almost inspired team effort that produced Wednesday's win in a duel that often appeared a bit scrambly because of close-checking tactics.

Getting fine netminding from Marcel Pelletier, solid defensive work from a set of rearguards who never became flustered under pressure and hustling, two-way efforts from all three forward lines, the Cats outplayed their Sound City rivals all the way.

They enjoyed their greatest margin in the second period when they tossed 17 shots at Bentley and they triggered a total of 37 shots along the route while the Totems managed only 17 drives at Pelletier's citadel.

Despite the apparent superiority of the Victorians, Totems were always dangerous and the feeling was growing as the game progressed that the first team to score would wind up with the verdict, and the Seattle crew was in the running until the final minute.

Cougars, who finished in a third-place tie with Edmonton in the league race, two points behind the runner-up Totems, went into the series believing they were the better club and they proceeded to prove it in dramatic fashion.

Bev's Efforts Kept Totems Close

Relentless forechecking by the forwards played a major part as the Cats held the loop's most-feared collection of snipers to four goals in the four games while picking up 14 for themselves. And three of the Totem tallies came on deflections.

Pelletier, of course, was a standout through the series. Given good protection most of the way, he was able to come up with spectacular saves when they were needed as he plastered two shutouts on the club that had racked up 270 goals and been blanked out only once during the 70-game schedule.

Bentley was great in defeat and had to be rated the best of the losers. Given less protection than his rival in the big pads, as the bustling Cougars forced Totem blueliners into errors, Bentley kept Seattle in contention until the dying seconds Wednesday and he turned aside 117 shots over the four games.

Now the question is whether or not the torrid Cats can cool off the league champion Canucks.

Although obviously happy with the Cougar performance against Seattle, manager-coach Hal Laycoe is following his habit of never making predictions. But the Cats believe they can also rack up the Canucks and were worried that they might have to wait until next Wednesday before locking horns with Art Chapman's crew.

Hay appeared to be speaking for all the Cougars when he yelled in the noisy Victoria dressing room, "I'm glad we're getting to those guys while we're hot."

Blame Eye Cut For Second Loss

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Perkins of Chicago defeated Chico Rollins Wednesday night when the New York lightweight suffered a gash on his left eyelid and was kept from answering the bell for the seventh round.

Rollins was cut in the fourth round. The gash bled profusely. Dr. John Pribble of the Illinois Athletic Commission examined it after the sixth round and told referee Frank Sikora to stop the bout.

Flyers Ousted In Four

EDMONTON — For the second successive year, Edmonton Flyers have bowed out of the Western Hockey League semifinal playoffs in straight games.

Flyers were shunted out of the playoff picture by Vancouver before 3,300 fans Wednesday night and now the Canucks step into the best-of-nine final against Victoria Cougars.

Canucks, first-place finishers in the league race, rang down the curtain for the Flyers by skating to a 2-1 triumph Wednesday after chalking up 4-3, 4-1 and 3-1 victories in the first three games.

Last season, Winnipeg Warriors blasted the Flyers in straight games in the semi-final round.

OPENED SCORING

Flyers looked as if they might be on their way to forcing a fifth game Wednesday when Warren Hynes opened the scoring in the second period.

However, the rugged Canucks came back with the only two tallies of the third session, by Colin Kilburn and Gordon Vejprava.

The game started on a rugged note and got rougher as it progressed although referee Willie Papp called only eight penalties, two of them misconduct sentences.

Goalie Dennis Riggin was again an Edmonton standout, blocking 28 shots while Vancouver's Hank Bassen stopped only 17.

AT STEVENSON PARK

First Boxla Workout Scheduled for Sunday

Victoria's Inter-City Lacrosse League squad, the former Shamrocks, will start Sunday on training for the 1960 season.

Coach Norm Baker has called the first practice for Sunday at Stevenson Park, starting at 10 a.m. Baker has asked all players with the club last year and any other interested players to attend the session.

Baker, who hopes to start indoor practices next week, says that all positions on the club are open and newcomers will be given full consideration.

Club officials hope to announce additional player news within a few days. New additions already signed for the coming season are Peterborough forward Paul Parnell and Gary Moore, a transfer from Nanaimo.

Boxla news from the mainland includes a report that the Vancouver and New Westminster clubs will play a pair of exhibition games in Calgary during the Easter weekend, if transportation costs can be arranged.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

VERO BEACH, Fla.—The big mouth helps if you manage a baseball team. The famous ones also gag up their personalities. Double-talk is Casey Stengel's angle, and he owns a piece of a bank. When Leo Durocher has a job, his tailor gets as much publicity as a .300 hitter. The exploration of the psychology of the athlete is Paul Richards' gimmick.

After a tough game, Freddy Hutchinson breaks up clubhouse chairs. Always Eddie Sawyer is a pedagogue who uses the field as a classroom. Jimmy Dykes pretends he is merely a spectator with a seat in the dugout who allows his club to improvise.

Even the great ones have tricks. But Walter Alston, who manages the Dodgers, doesn't have anything going for him. He is a quiet man who works to be inconspicuous and this makes him a freak of his loud kind. He runs his team with an enlightened stealth as if he were engaged in a clandestine enterprise. He has lasted longer than any other manager in the National League.

★ ★ ★

You must go to someone else to find out how good he is. His coaches are praised: he is neglected. But this is a spectacular man who has done what no other manager of the Dodgers did before him. The Dodgers have been in a lot of World Series, but they never won one until Alston's club beat the Yankees in '55.

★ ★ ★

In '55, they wondered how much Billy Herman, the coach, had to do with it. They claimed Herman made more decisions than Alston. In '58, when the Dodgers fell through the league into seventh place, they figured this was the end of him. But they won the championship last year and this time it was Charlie Dressen whose influence was overestimated. But the guy who dominates the Dodgers, in good seasons and bad, is Alston.

Other managers do it with raging monolgues or a con man's guff. But Alston's skills are patience and tolerance and a clean hardness which is not marred by conceit or spite. He is loyal to his people and this they know.

Problem Is the Same as Last Year

He waits for the kids. He doesn't hurry the guys a little slow from their years. He doesn't panic and he gives a man time to fail. It was expected that the Dodgers would drop a lot of the older players after '58. Any suggestion from Alston would have instigated immediate trades.

Even Buzzy Bavasi, the vice-president, who negotiates all transactions, anticipated Alston would demand changes. His requests would have been served by Bavasi. But Alston insisted he would keep what he had. He was right, of course, but he is seldom wrong.

Pool is his hobby and he can run a couple of racks from the break. He doesn't play golf and he makes furniture in the basement of his home for kicks. There isn't a kid on the squad who would be sure he could handle Alston with his fists, but his dignity never allows an argument to go that far.

★ ★ ★

His candor can be brutal. If his threats are infrequent, they are not carelessly presented. He keeps his word whether it is delivered in anger or generosity. He can't be intimidated, but he has the sense to alter his opinion because he doesn't take a position just to prove his obstinacy.

★ ★ ★

The team Alston put into the World Series took a lot of managing. The runs wouldn't come and he had to use the small talents of his players. He won his first pennant with the long ball and played for the big inning. But last season he depended on the stolen base, the taking of the extra base on balls hit to the outfield, and the bunt and the hit-and-run play.

He believes this team is better than last year's. The experience, according to Alston, will help such kids as Maury Wills and Larry Sherry. It also used up such as Duke Snider and Clem Labine. He wants Frank Howard, the monstrous minor league outfielder, to make it at first base. He hopes Tommy Davis, a Brooklyn kid, who hit .345 for Spokane in '59, and Carl Warwick, also an outfielder, force him to keep them. But, except for this doubtful help, this is the team that beat the White Sox in the Series.

"Your problem is the same as last year," I said.

"Yes," he said. "We're short of power."

Sweeps Racket Helps Grafters Line Pockets

VANCOUVER (CP) — Local agents are gouging large profits from a sweepstake ticket racket, police said Wednesday.

The victims, said gambling squad detectives, are John Public and the organizers of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

They said the racket operating here is duplicated in most other Canadian cities.

It works this way:

Agents get books of tickets from Ireland, keep the money from the tickets they sell, and claim the books were either seized by police or lost in the mails.

Sellers pocket up to 82 cents profit through exchange rates on every ticket sold. They pay £1 sterling ($2.68) for each ticket and sell for up to $3.50.

SYSTEM FAILS

Police said a system of issuing receipts to eliminate destruction of ticket stubs after books have been sold has failed.

Under this system, ticket holders are supposed to receive receipts from Ireland after their ticket stubs have been returned.

"We know of cases, however, where both books and receipts were mailed to agents at the same time," said one detective.

"This has made it easy for the agent to send out receipts to customers a few weeks after he's sold his tickets and destroyed the stubs."

He said in every 12-ticket book of stubs returned to Ireland, only four are figured into the hospital donation and the prizes.

"The rest are absorbed by agents, sellers, grafters and hangers-on."

SMALL OPERATIONS

Police said they have made two sweepstake ticket seizures in the last week but in both cases the operations were small.

"Today we suspect there is one major agent or wholesaler supplying a large number of sub-agents who in turn distribute books to sellers," the detective said.

Several other books are mailed directly from Ireland to individuals who sell to their friends and generally are satisfied to retain two tickets for themselves—the commission set by the organizers — before returning the stubs.

WIN SAVAGE CUP

Eight-Year Quest Ended by Smokies

TRAIL (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters dumped Kelowna Packers 6-4 before an overflow house Wednesday night to win the Western Allan Cup semi-final playoff series.

The best-of-seven Savage Cup final went to the hockey-mad Kootenay Valley centre by a 4-2 count, the first time in eight years Trail has won the senior amateur title for B.C.

The Smoke Eaters now play host to Port Arthur Bearcats in the Allan Cup semi-final beginning Monday.

Pinoke McIntyre, Don Fletcher, Harry Smith, Frank Turik, Hal Jones and George Ferguson each contributed single goals to the Trail cause.

Kelowna's points came from Warren Hicks, Bill Jones, Joe Kaiser and Brian Roche.

Unlike Mondy night's game—when a wild brawl broke up the game in the third period—Wednesday night's action was relatively clean.

Pony Grads, Colts In Same Stable

There's been a change in the Colt Baseball League organization, but the name will remain in the lineup for another season.

Colt League play now will be governed by the "Pony Grad" association, and will work hand-in-hand with Pony League. Tieup of the two organizations will provide 15 and 16-year-old ball players with a new nation-wide playoff.

Details of the new setup were announced in Victoria recently by Gerwyn Jones of Walla Walla, Wash., regional director for both groups.

TWO REPS?

Meeting with officials of Victoria and Duncan leagues, he said Vancouver Island may possibly wind up with two representatives in the regional Colt playoffs this summer. Jones also assured Island Pony officials of at least one representative in their region.

Al Collier, Island Colt director, today announced registrations for boys 15 and 16 years of age will take place Saturday and Sunday. Registrations, which will be held at Windsor Park in Oak Bay, will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Minor Lacrosse Boys Getting Set

Registration and a workout will be held Saturday at 9:30 a.m. in Stevenson Park for all boys 14 years and under interested in playing lacrosse during the summer.

Greater Victoria Minor Box Lacrosse Association officials said anyone interested in coaching or refereeing is also asked to turn out.

Jockey's Agent Fed Up With 'Bitter Young Man'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Jockey Bill Hartack, 28, and his agent, Chick Lang, parted Wednesday and the temperamental rider promptly brought in four winners at Gulfstream Park.

Lang, Hartack's agent since 1954, called him "an ungrateful, bitter young man who has no respect for anyone."

They split up for three days last spring but Lang said "there is absolutely no chance of a reconciliation this time."

Hartack said he has hired agent Howard (Scratch Sheet) Pestano. Lang's resignation becomes effective after Saturday, when Hartack rides Venetian Way in the Florida Derby.

CAN'T LOSE

"I can't accept defeat," Hartack said. "If I ever get to that point, I'll quit. If I ride 1,500 horses a year and 1,000 of them lose, it hurts 1,000 times. The winners I take for granted, but the losers hurt."

Hartack said Lang is one of the best agents in the business but they haven't been able to agree on choosing mounts during the last two years.

"The biggest job I had with Bill wasn't getting him mounts," Lang said. "It was soothing people he had insulted. It's terrible for a young boy like this to hate as much as he does.

"I just can't go along with him any longer," Lang added. "I can't take his bitterness against racing and the people in it. He has no respect for anyone—the officials, the management, the horsemen."

Hartack was the leading rider in 1955, 1956 and 1957 and is the only jockey ever to ride horses winning more than $3,000,000 in one year. In 1957, his mounts won $3,060,501.

B.C. Tourney For Paddlers Starts Friday

Home-town entrants usually outnumber the visitors in paddle tournaments, but such may not be the case in this year's B.C. Open table tennis championships.

Unless Victoria table-thumpers get busy and hustle in their entries, visitors may be in the majority when the annual two-day tourney gets under way Friday evening at 7, in the Victoria Table Tennis Club headquarters, 1318 Broad Street.

Club officials are urging local paddlers to submit entries as soon as possible to secretary Thelma Gough at GR 7-2841.

As usual, there will be a good collection of stars in the out-of-town brigade, including defending singles champions Carl Cole of Portland and Joy Owen of Vancouver and other aces from Washington and the B.C. mainland.

NOBODY'LL BITE ON BARK OF DOG WHO WON'T SLEEP

(From Duncan Bureau)

A Duncan resident has lost his patience and has vowed to take some action to stop a neighbor's dog barking.

To date Mayor J. T. Dobson, city aldermen, the RCMP, and Magistrate A. C. Sutton have not been able to help Roy S. Temple, 941 Warncliffe Road.

Mr. Temple says the dog across the alley from his bedroom window barks constantly, starting at 4.30 a.m.

All the mayor told me was that "it's too bad we have to put up with it," Mr. Temple said.

"We feel it is time the council woke up and did something," Mrs. Temple said today.

"When you have an anti-noise bylaw and it doesn't cover barking dogs then something is wrong in Denmark," she said.

The RCMP and Magistrate Sutton pointed out Monday that the dog is "making a natural noise." The owner is not causing the dog to bark, and as a result nothing can be done.

City council has decided it is up to Mr. Temple to "make the next move."

Mrs. Temple today would not say what that move will be.

"We don't want to tip our hand to the enemy, so to speak," she said.

Jack Bailey and "the proof"

TONY AND BLACK PRINCE

Royal Birthright In Duncan Folio

A link — tenuous enough it must be admitted — exists in Duncan between Tony Armstrong-Jones, the man affianced to Princess Margaret, and the first Prince of Wales.

That it is a link at all must be accepted on the findings of British genealogists who have traced Tony's ancestry back for hundreds of years.

It consists of a folio printed in London in 1610 by William Iggard, entitled "Catalogue of the Ancient Princes of Wales, Their Wives and Issue."

Owner of the document is Jack Bailey, a Duncan resident who, as he says diffidently, "picked it up in an old manor house in the north of Wales in 1950."

One section of it, in the quaint idiom and spelling of the period—the letter "v" was "u" and "s" appeared as "f"—relates the brief history of Edward of Caernarvon, son of King Edward the First of England.

The artful King used little Edward to woo the fierce Welsh into accepting him as their own Prince because he was born by special geographic and obstetrical arrangement—in Wales.

Descended from this princeling, who according to Mr. Bailey's folio "died a violent death" is Antony Armstrong-Jones. Another descendant was the Black Prince, one of the doughtiest warriors in all history.

As consort of Princess Margaret, Tony, it appears, will just be carrying on in the old tradition and wearing the old school tie.

$10,000 Gift Pledge For Library

NANAIMO (CP)—A $10,000 gift has been promised to the Nanaimo Library Fund "when sufficient other financing is in hand or pledged to complete the library," George Darling, Vancouver Island library board chairman, announced Wednesday.

The contribution is from William M. Mercer of Vancouver, head of a national firm of actuaries, in memory of his father, the late William B. Mercer, a native son of Nanaimo.

Objective of a fund drive now under way is $25,000.

Construction and publicity committees are being set up to expedite construction of a new hospital in the district, and meetings already have been held with an architect.

L. Bailey is vice-chairman of the main committee, and Ken Noton, KDH administrator, is secretary.

Missing Children Hunted

DUNCAN—RCMP here are searching for two Cowichan Indian children, Abraham Johnny, 12, and Yvonne Johnny, 10, missing from the home of their parents, Mrs. Mary Johnny and Stanley Tooshley, Tzhouhalem Road, since 6 p.m. Wednesday.

The brother and sister are students of St. Anne's convent.

It was thought they could be visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Alphonse, Trunk Road, but a check has proved they have not been seen at that home.

The children are not in the habit of leaving home, their father said today.

Hertel Zoo Must Close By May 14

NANAIMO — Provincial game branch zoo committee in Vancouver rejected a final appeal Wednesday by Paul Hertel to keep his Wellington zoo operating during the summer, and reiterated its previous order that the zoo will close by May 14.

Frank Butler, game commissioner, said more than a year had been allowed to bring the zoo up to standard after application of licensing laws. The laws were made effective after a lioness escaped from the zoo in 1958 and killed a little girl.

SIDNEY—Thieves who broke into Gordon's Food Market here stole $15 from a cash register, RCMP reported. A break-in was reported at Slegg Brothers' Hardware, but nothing was taken.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Jimmy Durante (The Nose) and Mimi Hines (The Teeth) are now starring on the Saloon Beat, and while Mimi's greater than before, so's the late-sixtyish Schnozzola who's been around only since about 1915.

Jimmy strutted on to the Copacabana floor at 12.35 a.m. and began singing "I Could Have Danced All Night." Suddenly he screamed, "Stop da music! Why should I sing this song and make it a big hit?"

He clowned for an hour with Eddie Jackson, Sonny King, Johnny Mack, Sally Davis, Jack Roth and Jules Buffano—climaxing it all by shaking hands with orchestra leader Paul Shelley and saying: "I hope you have some other source of income."

Inka - Dinka - Doo Jimmy brought in almost a new show—he did scream "Git off and stay off!" to his colleagues, but he didn't break up the piano. It was one of the great Copacabana nights—in front of that new combination, Billy Rose and Lucille Ball.

Mimi Hines and Phil Ford, those Jack Paar favorites, brought something wonderfully fresh to the Latin Quarter—Phil saying Mimi was the only kid in the block who could eat tomatoes through a tennis racquet. Barefooted, and portraying "Sayonara," she offered her specialty, "Ruv Me or Reave Me or Ret Me Be Ronery."

When she tugged her girdle, he asked, "Is that living?" Mimi said: "I think so — it's creeping." Then Mimi asked: "Want to buy a hot?" Phil: "A hot what?" Mimi: "A hot anything—I had a good year."

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Diane Lingos, aged 12, of Somerville, Mass., for her question:

How Is Clay Made?

Clay has a wonderful plastic quality. When it is wet or damp we can mold it and it keeps its shape after it dries out. If we bake it or fire it, the molded shape becomes even harder and also water tight. This trick was discovered before the dawn of history and all our ceramics and dishes are still made from clay.

There is a certain amount of clay in all good soil. This is why a very young person needs only a little water to make mud pies in any corner of the garden. It is possible to mold the mud because of the clay it contains. This moldable quality is because of certain chemical factors in the clay itself.

Under a microscope, we see that clay is made from very fine plate-like particles. It is made from two mineral compounds, silica and aluminia. Silica is a compound of the elements silicon and oxygen. Aluminia is a compound of the elements aluminum and oxygen.

The plate-like particles overlap and interlock with each other and the chemist tells us that they have a sticky quality. This is because each tiny particle can hold a film of water by electrical attraction. Each wears a thin slippery coat which makes it glide and slither among its neighbors. This is what makes clay plastic and why we are able to mold it. When heated, the moisture is driven out and the little plates lock together to form a firm solid. With greater heat, the little plates may weld together in a solid mass.

Clay is a by-product of the ceaseless warfare between the rocks and the weather. Naturally, it can form only from rocks which contain the compounds silica and aluminia. The most common clay making rocks are feldspars and certain igneous or fire-formed rocks such as granite and lavas.

Rocks Ground by Elements

Great boulders of these rocks look strong and solid indeed. But the weather and the changing seasons finally grind them to fragments. Rocks, like everything else, tend to expand with heat and shrink with the cold. The heat and frost of countless seasons tend to make them crack. Once a great boulder is cracked, the falling rain goes into action. It drips and trickles down, lapping at the sides of the cracks. Its greedy little tongues dissolve what chemicals it can. This weakens the rock.

The cracks widen. Large chunks break off and fall away and the relentless weather works to break them into still smaller pieces. It takes lots of running water to powder rocks into fine fragments of clay. For these little plate particles measure several thousands to an inch. At first, the new formed clay may be a soft layer of mud. Later it may become buried and dried out into a layer of rocky shale. Still later it may be pressed into a brittle slab of slate.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Diane Morley, age 12, of Canton, N.C., for her question:

What is dust?

The solid things we see around us are constantly wearing away. Fragments of soil dry up and blow off on the breezes. The wind, the weather and blowing sand are forever chipping away at the rocks and the mountains. Buildings, our clothes, even the rugs and furniture are constantly wearing away. Actually, all these solid things break down into fine fragments of dust. When the air is still, as it is inside a house, the air borne particles of dust settle down and we see them on all the solid surfaces.

True, everything is forever breaking down into dust. But this does not mean that our solid old world will end as a heap of dust. Not at all. Fallen dust collects in layers, not only indoors but outdoors. There it mingles with the soil or makes layers of new rocks. In time they too turn to dust which, in time, becomes solid rocks again.

OTTAWA (CP) — Western beef producers staged Ottawa's biggest and noisiest lobby Wednesday night by throwing a roast beef banquet for 400 guests in the parliamentary restaurant.

They herded Prime Minister Harkness, and other cabinet ministers, along with MPs, senators and press gallery correspondents and their wives into the lofty restaurant over the Commons chamber and left them branded with one message:

PSYCHOLOGY, TECHNIQUE

Daring Challenger Beats Chess Champ

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail Tal, unorthodox Latvian challenger, has astounded the chess world with early victories over world champion Mikhail Botvinnik of the Soviet Union, Tass said today

The Russian news agency's chess expert, Yakov Rokhlin, commenting on progress of the 24-match series for the world title, said Tal had "turned a new page in psychology and technique."

"His amazing knowledge of chess was revealed with particular force in the sixth and seventh games," Rokhlin wrote. "The skeptics say that Tal wins because Botvinnik makes mistakes. But it is difficult to keep one's wits in the turmoil of a stormy game again Tal."

Tal, 23, leads Botvinnik, 47, five points to two. The eighth game was scheduled for today.

Rokhlin said:

"In the sixth game Tal saw that black's unmistaken reply on move 25, following the knight sacrifice, would have made him seek a draw.

"But the challenger accepted the most aggressive version deliberately, without disdaining the world champion's possible miscalculation in the heat of the struggle. That was what happened. Instead of taking his bishop, Botvinnik, who saw himself winning, took his opponent's queen. This blunder brought black at once to the brink of disaster. Tal's finishing blow was as masterly as usual."

Rokhlin said the same situation prevailed in the seventh game.

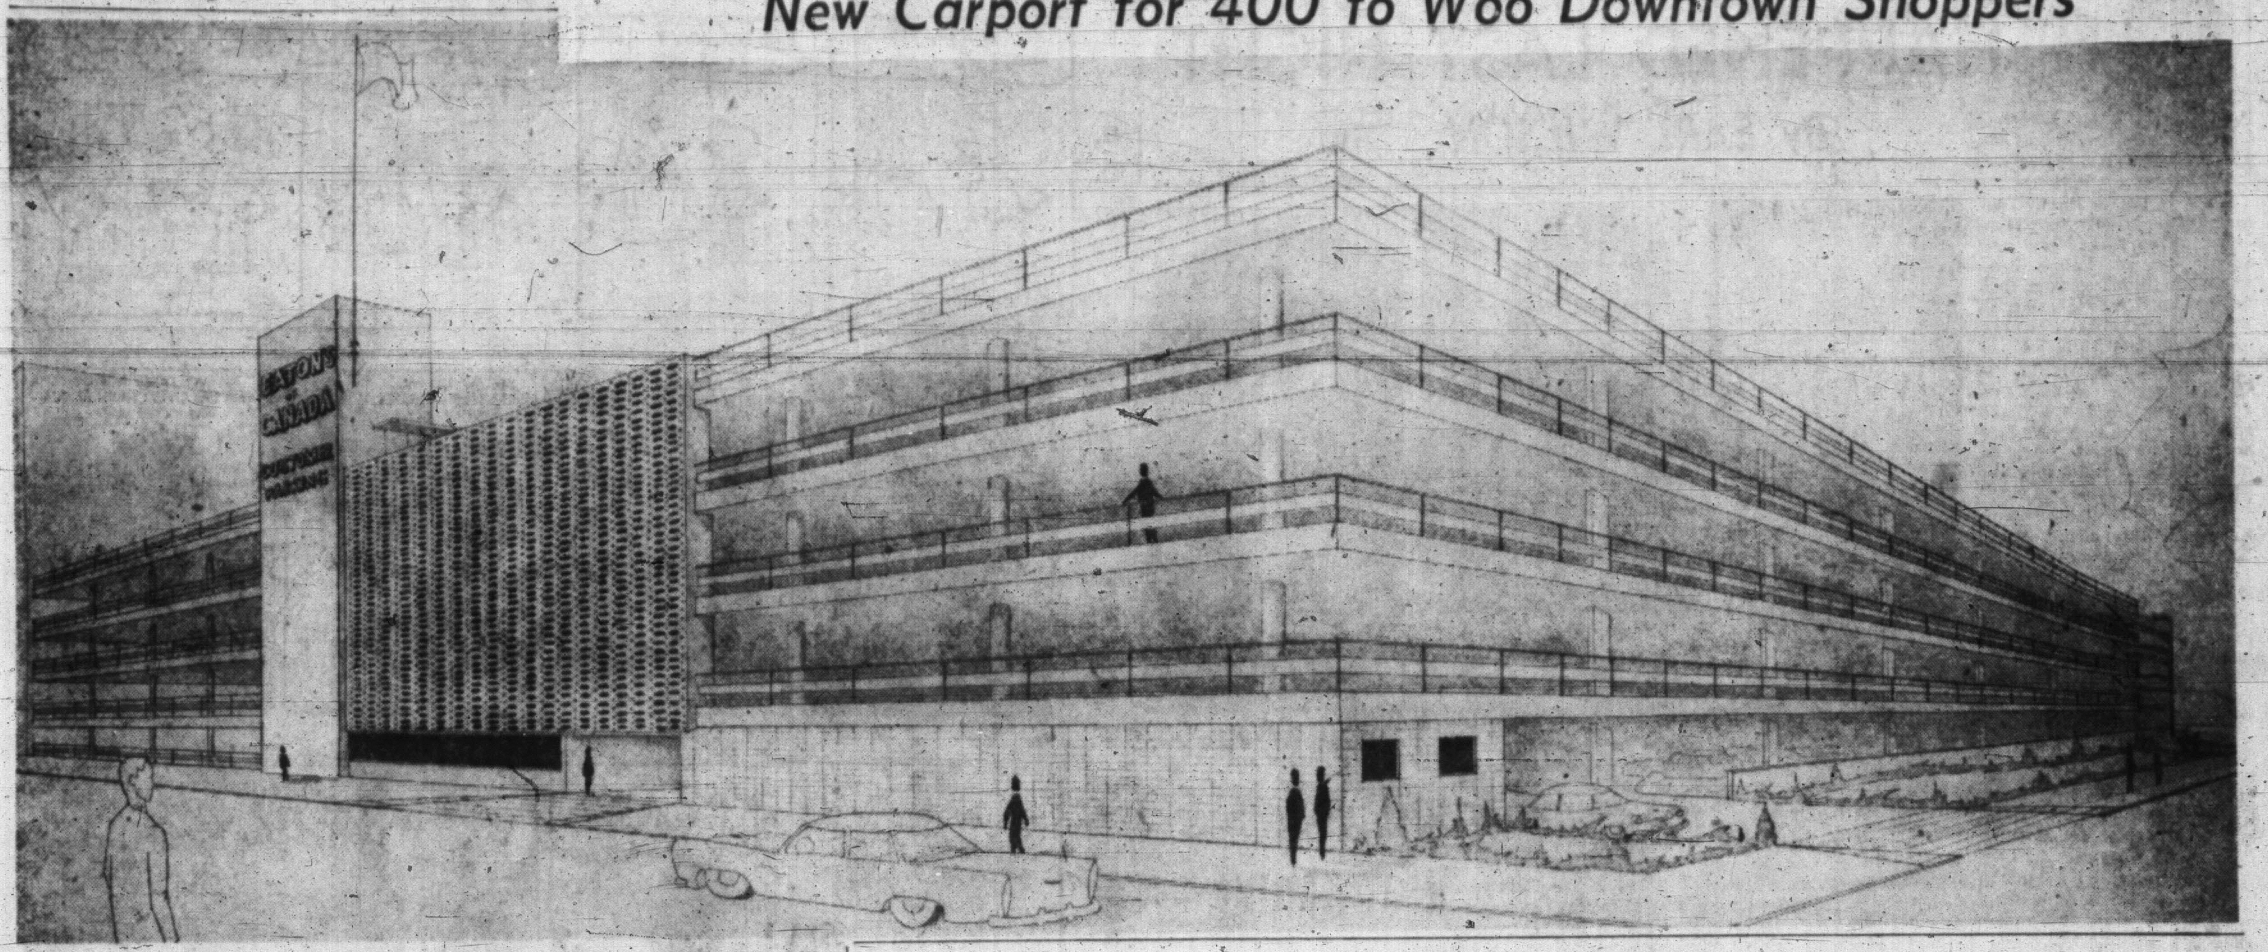
OUT OUR WAY

New Carport for 400 to Woo Downtown Shoppers



New face will appear on the city's horizon October 1 when Eaton's of Canada opens a four-deck customer carpark on its present parking lot between Broughton, Gordon and Courtney. Work will begin immediately on the carpark announced Wednesday by David Kinnear, general manager of Eaton's in B.C. The project will be built by Dominion Construction Co. It will handle 400 cars. Considered a major step toward encouraging downtown shopping the building will have 204 feet frontage on Broughton, 138 feet on Courtney and 192 feet on Gordon. Cars will enter and depart from Gordon.

FOUR STOREYS READY OCT. 1

Eaton's Parking Project Spurs City's Mall Plans

Mayor Percy Scurrah lauded the announcement of a multi-storey department store car park today and promised a concerted drive will be made to hasten the city-proposed View Street parking facility.

The mayor said the four-storey car park planned by Eaton's of Canada "complements our efforts to revitalize the downtown section."

Eaton's car park, announced Wednesday, calls for an immediate start and a grand opening Oct. 1 on the present street-level parking site bounded by Broughton, Gordon and Courtney.

Cost of the project was not disclosed.

Mayor Scurrah said the department store move shows that "downtown businesses and the city are joining together to prevent further decay in the business section."

"I'm anxious," said the mayor, "that city council push the View Street facility (part of the Downtown Improvement Plan) as quickly as possible.

"Next week I will discuss with council whether there should be an area or city-wide vote and the date for such a move."

The mayor said he was certain taxpayers generally will be pleased to hear of the Eaton's development.

"With the Hudson's Bay Co. parking lot able to handle 460 cars and the old fire hall site available for public parking, the north end of the downtown district is pretty well taken care of. Eaton's car park fulfills a need in the south downtown area. This shows downtown business — particularly department stores — are taking care of parking, and it is downtown business which produces 48 per cent of our taxes."

NEAR GOAL

The mayor noted that Eaton's and the View Street facility would provide off-street parking for 800 cars — "and that brings us close to the 1,000 off-street spaces we could do with."

The Eaton announcement, mooted last year after the company picked up its lease on the old Vancouver Island Coach Lines site, was made by David Kinnear, general manager of Eaton's for British Columbia.

The building will have 204 feet frontage on Broughton, 138 feet on Courtney and 192 feet on Gordon. Cars will enter and depart from Gordon.

The building will have an automatic passenger elevator serving all floors. Parcel pick-up will be at the Gordon Street exit.

Dominion Construction Co. of Vancouver, has the contract.

Man Guilty Of Possessing Dolophine

James Sutherland Scoular, 931 Inverness, will be sentenced Friday in Assize court here on a drug possession charge.

He was found guilty Wednesday by an Assize jury.

Scoular was charged with having a quantity of dolophine in his possession Oct. 17, 1959. The drug is a synthetic product included under the Opium and Narcotics Drug Act.

Michael Grant of Grant's Pharmacy, 1064 Pandora, said that on Oct. 17 he filled out a prescription in the name of James Clark, 320 Robertson, for the drug.

He identified the accused as the man who received the prescription.

The prescription was identified by city physician, Dr. J. F. Higgins, though he could not identify the accused as the man to whom the prescription had been made out.

PITLAMPERS FINED $500

NANAIMO — Two Nanaimo men, Douglas Carswell and Ronald Graham, were convicted of pitlamping deer here and fined $500 each in city police court.

If the fines are not paid they will be jailed for six months.

KELVINGTON, Sask. (CP) — The worst blizzard of the winter struck the Kelvington district 135 miles east of Saskatoon Wednesday, blocking rural roads and interfering with traffic on a main highway.

'WHOLE WORLD WANTS A-TEST BAN'—NASSER

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Gamal Abdel Nasser told India's parliament today a permanent ban on nuclear weapons tests is "the will of all nations of the world."

The United Arab Republic president addressed a joint session of Parliament on the third day of his visit here.

Proof that all countries want the tests prohibited, he said, was shown in world-wide protests over the French atomic test in the Sahara Desert.

. . . REIGN OF TERROR

some time. For months African political movements had been planning protest campaigns—the first against the oppressive pass laws which give apartheid its greatest single weapon.

Thirty-eight Africans were killed last week when they demonstrated against the pass laws. The slaughter, instead of frightening Africans, gave them courage. It was almost like Britons saying during the blitz, "we can take it."

Caught in the chain of violence it had itself precipitated, the Verwoerd government announced that for the time being Africans would not be arrested for failing to produce their identity books. With mounting confidence, Africans began to burn their books.

Plainly, from the government's point of view, if the burning of identity books continues on a mass scale the most important single piece of apparatus for the control of the African people would be sabotaged. The government, as Verwoerd piously anounced, had to maintain law and order —hence the state of emergency.

Was the order suspending arrests for pass offences a cunning move to lure Africans into a sense of confidence so they would provide the government with the excuse to build up a police state? Or was Verwoerd genuinely frightened by the turn in events?

The answer is still unclear. But the emergency move is popular among the extreme Afrikaners, who believe that Africans must be kept completely subservient and granted no concessions. But other white South Africans are dismayed, bewildered and frightened.

When Pot Boiling, Why Turn Up the Gas?

They ask: when the pot is already boiling over, do you turn up the gas?

The other questions are these: can anyone, even Verwoerd pretend that the arrest of leaders represents a durable solution of the pressing problems of South Africa? How long can peace be maintained by guns and banishments? What will happen now that the last vestige of outspoken public comment—the press—is stifled under authoritarian rules about "subversive" statements?

Shares in the Johannesburg stock exchange dropped by over $200,000,000 Wednesday—the biggest loss for many years. Men and women who were arrested in the morning applied for writs of habeas corpus and were released by the courts—only to be promptly re-arrested when the government Gazette extraordinary carried details of the state of emergency proclamation; this time the courts had to stand by impotently.

Only a personal footnote is needed to complete the familiar picture.

This reporter was requested by the Columbia Broadcasting System, which has been unable to obtain a visa for any of its own correspondents, to provide an on-the-spot news report. The beam to New York was ready. But the government-operated African Broadcasting Corporation refused permission, citing the emergency proclamation.

A senior official said, "we are not concerned with the outside world."

$15 Increase For Rural Water Asked

An increase in retail water rates averaging $15 a year for the 4,000 customers in the Langford-Colwood-View Royal area will be sought by Greater Victoria water board.

An application to the Public Utilities Commission for approval of the increase was ordered by the board Wednesday.

The board previously raised its wholesale rates to the municipalities by 30 per cent and water commissioner said the retail increase was necessary to ensure that rural customers will "pay their fair share of operating and construction costs."

KILLER JOKED BEFORE DEATH

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP)—A sad-eyed little killer whose last request was for "a bullet-proof vest," was shot by a firing squad in the windy grey dawn Wednesday.

Five anonymous riflemen fired at 6.16 a.m. and 49-year-old James W. Rodgers slumped dying in a wooden captain's chair. He was executed for the 1957 shooting in a southeastern Utah mining camp of Charles Merrifield, 33.

Rodgers spent his last minutes joking with a chaplain and prison officials. He was asked if he had anything to say.

"I done told you my last request—a bullet-proof vest," he said.

Silver Threads Centre Planned

A centre for senior citizens will open within a month at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Arrangements are now being completed by Victoria's Silver Threads Service, a Red Feather sponsored organization for the elderly.

Inside the Broughton Street entrance of the church will be the Silver Threads counselling service and accommodation and housekeeper registration service.

The hall will be used as a "drop in" recreation centre, open every day, and to organize bridge, films and other entertainment.

The project was announced at the annual meeting at which Welfare Minister W. D. Black was guest speaker.

He said he admired an organization such as this "in which people give freely and unselfishly of their time and effort to make life a little better and more pleasant for other people."

The Union of South Africa's gold reserves rose from £75,000,000 in May, 1958, to £145,000,000 in October, 1959.

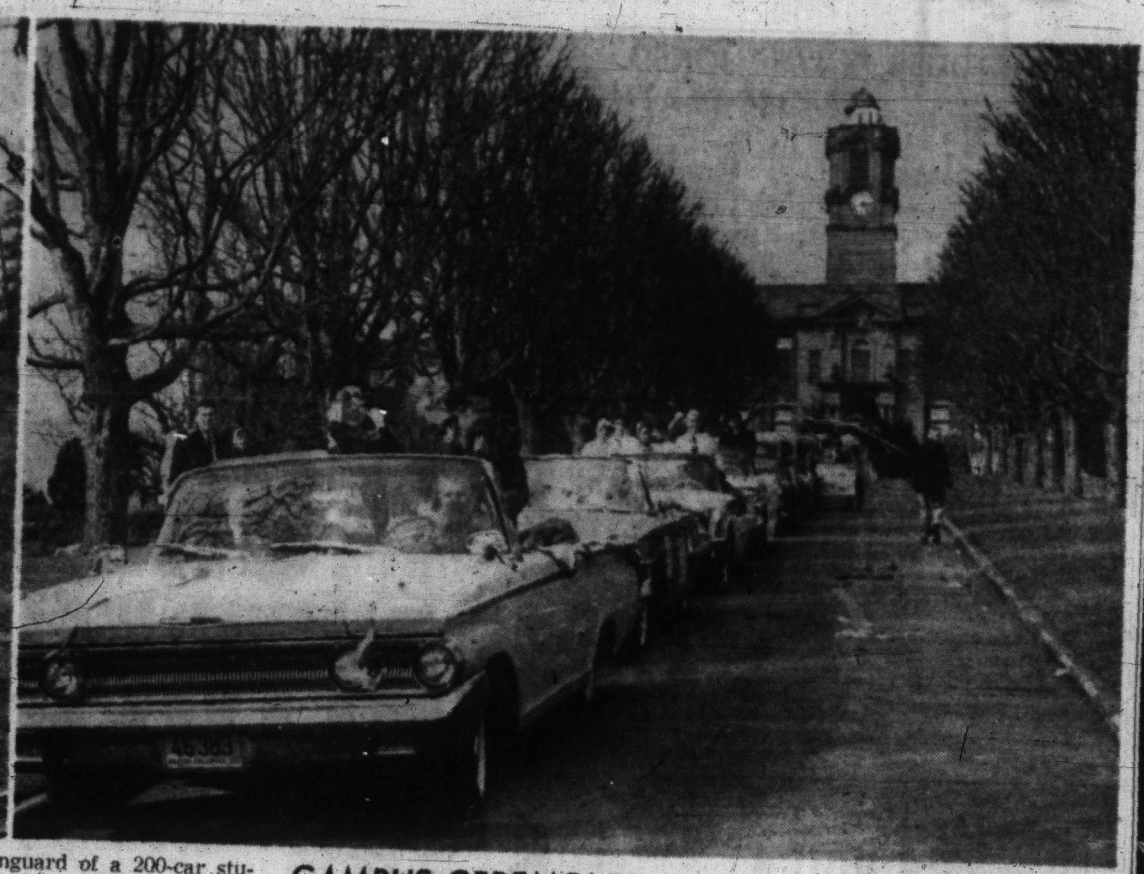
GOLD-PAINTED SHOVEL was used by Lloyd McKenzie, left, to turn the first sod Wednesday as construction of a $250,000 classroom building began on the Mount Tolmie campus. "This is to build a better home" for University of Victoria the chairman of the Victoria College Council building committee told hundreds of students before he put the shovel to work during the open-air ceremony.



Colorful vanguard of a 200-car student motorcade is shown, right, before the mobile parade began its surge through downtown streets. Students celebrated the start of the university's expansion program by conducting their own canvass of more than 1,000 selected homes in the evening to help the building fund drive.

CAMPUS CEREMONY

$21,000 and Day Off For Student Canvass

University of Victoria students today were given a holiday to rest up from celebrations and canvassing that added more than $21,000 to the university building fund drive.

About 200 decorated cars streamed through downtown streets in a jubilant motorcade Wednesday afternoon as students whooped up the start of the university's expansion program.

Later, a rendezvous at the Gordon Head campus filled them with a hot dog supper and they set off again to canvass about 1,100 selected homes of prospective university students.

Ultimate total of the canvass is expected to reach $25,000 when call-backs are completed Monday night.

The successful canvass was followed by a student dance at the drill hall on the Gordon Head campus.

Students got a day off from classes today but most of them spent it studying as the Easter examinations neared. Education course students begin writing April 12 and the rest of the students followed four days later.

"IT'S STARTED"

Lloyd McKenzie, chairman of the Victoria College Council building committee, vigorously turned the first sod at an afternoon ceremony on the Mount Tolmie Campus to signal start of a $250,000 classroom building project.

Later, student council president Marilyn Ardley, unveiled a large sign fronting in the campus' Foul Bay Road boundary proclaiming "it's started."

The new building will be the first financed by the current building fund drive for $2,500,000 which will be matched by the provincial government.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant told some 300 students assembled for the simple ceremony that "this is an occasion that happens but once in a lifetime."

He said growth of Victoria College into a university was needed to meet increasing population which is expected to add another 100,000 persons to Vancouver Island in the next decade or two.

The building fund drive has the support of the provincial government and "the best is yet to come," he said.

Willard Ireland, vice-chairman of the college council, was master of ceremonies at the open-air event.

He paid tribute to Judge J. B. Clearihue, college council chairman who was unable to attend due to illness.

He described Judge Clearihue as "one of the prime drivers of the efforts to establish the college as a university."

AN EXAMPLE OF NEW ART FORM from the far north which soon will be available to Victorians is colored print entitled "Man hunting at seal hole". It was made by Niviaksiak, a great Eskimo artist who died in a hunting accident last year. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

The Arctic Lives in Exciting Color Prints As Eskimo Art at Premium Across Canada

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sensational and exciting are the words to describe a series of Eskimo prints which have been bought by a Victoria art and craft dealer for sale here.

The prints, which have aroused the interest of art lovers in Canada and the United States, have been sent by the Department of Northern Affairs to Mrs. Bessie FitzGerald, proprietor of the Quest for Handicrafts Ltd., at the corner of Government and Fort.

It's a new type of Eskimo art.

The graphic art works come from a native co-operative centre at Cape Dorset on a small island off the coast of south-east Baffin Island. The tiny community has already achieved fame for its stone carvings.

Mrs. FitzGerald plans to exhibit the prints before selling them.

ONLY 39 PRINTS

But you can count yourself lucky if you can buy one. There are only two lots, each containing 39 different prints.

Mrs. FitzGerald admits that the "ease of selling them" is going to be a problem.

Art dealers in all major centres across Canada have also received small supplies, but the demand has far exceeded the number of prints available.

This has resulted in people from Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa wiring and writing to Mrs. FitzGerald asking her to set aside prints for them. The letters and telegrams come in every day.

RESERVED FOR LOCALS

"As far as I'm concerned the prints are for people in this area," Mrs. FitzGerald said.

The prints are reproduced by the Eskimos by two different techniques—stenciling and stone-block printing. In the first, the Eskimo artist cuts a design on a piece of sealskin and pigment is brushed into the cut-out areas. Then prints are made.

In the second, a design is cut into shale-like pieces of stone and inked for print making. The stone is quarried about 100 miles from Cape Dorset and is brought to the settlement either by boat or by dog-sled.

These two techniques were taught to the Eskimos by James Houston, a department of Northern Affairs' area administrator, who some years ago brought Eskimo stone sculpture to public attention. Mr. Houston is stationed at Cape Dorset.

It takes an Eskimo about a week to make a stone carving. Then he brings it to the craft centre and the Eskimo printers have a look at it. If there are any flaws in the block, such as high spots, the block will be cut down by the artist. The artist then suggests the colors which he thinks would be preferable for the design and sometimes helps with the printing process.

The Eskimos mainly use three colors for their prints—black, blue and red. The red is made from iron rust from locally found iron, while the residue at the bottom of seal oil lamp is used to produce black paint.

To the Eskimo the prints are important because they permit him to express his views and outlook on life. In his pictures he reveals his dreams . . . the rhythm of a flight of birds and the wonder of nature.

The white polar bear to the white man is but a powerful animal good for its skin. But to the Eskimo, the bear which provides him with both clothing and food, is more than that. He too possesses a spirit.

Among the drawings are some executed by a Cape Dorset Eskimo named Niviaksiak, who died in a hunting accident this year at the age of 30. He was known by his people as a great hunter and artist.

The drawings of Niviaksiak have now become collectors items. Some are included in Mrs. FitzGerald's collection. His birds and animals all breathe life. Their simplicity are their chief attraction.

Another artist is Shekoalock, who also died last year. He had no schooling, but was becoming an excellent graphic artist until his career was cut short.

Others include Kananginka, an excellent carver and print maker. He is president of the West Baffin Eskimo Co-operative.

One of the most striking aspects of the prints is the colors. They give you the feel of the north—the blue is blue of the arctic sea, the black of the landscape and the reddish-brown the evening sky.

Strachan to Press Right to Present Peace Power Brief

Opposition leader Robert Strachan today indicated he will seek the opportunity to present a brief to forthcoming Public Utilities Commission hearings on the Peace River development plan.

But chairman of the PUC, Dr. H. F. Angus said this morning, "political parties have their own forum in the legislature and should not appear before us."

Mr. Strachan said this is not the case. "The legislature was denied access to documents pertaining to the Peace River Power Development. In a standing vote, Social Credit members refused to have these tabled. Dr. Angus is wrong when he says political parties can discuss the Peace River proposals in the legislature."

Mr. Strachan would not outline at this time what steps his party will take to continue before the PUC in battle against private development of the Peace. His party has argued in the house this development cannot help but provide more costly power than the Columbia River, which is to be developed publicly.

Private companies must pay corporation taxes and share dividends, the CCF states, greatly adding to the ultimate cost to the consumer.

The matter blew up again today when it was announced in Vancouver that Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston wrote the PRPD president W. C. Mainwaring. He said the government has now approved the report of water comptroller A. F. Paget. Mr. Paget, with consulting engineers, has spent three months studying the feasability report of Peace engineering.

With some changes suggested, he has declared the $638,000,000 development plan sound.

"Your company is now in position to make the necessary applications, first to the Public Utilities Commission, and then to the water rights branch, for the required certificate and licence," Mr. Williston wrote.

No one was able to state today, when the hearing would be held by the PUC.

Dr. Angus said he will await application by the PRPD before deciding where or when the hearings would open. Asked who could submit briefs, he said every interested party is entitled to be heard.

However, private citizens, who might consider themselves shareholders in the proposed public development of the Columbia (which could be delayed by the Peace), would not likely be entitled to hearing. "We can't have a million people appearing," said Dr. Angus.

LEMIEUX

SHUFFLE

RCMP Chief Gets Post At Ottawa

British Columbia's senior RCMP officer, Assistant Commissioner Joseph R. Lemieux, 56, has been appointed deputy commissioner at RCMP headquarters, Ottawa.

He will leave Victoria during the latter part of April. His successor is Assistant Commissioner Douglas O. Forrest, 52, who will arrive here from Ottawa shortly after.

The RCMP also announced today the posting to Victoria from Prince Rupert of Sub. Inspector W. B. Irving, who takes over as second CIB officer here, replacing Insp. Carl Ledoux, who retired recently. Insp. Irving arrives today.

Both Commissioner Lemieux and Commissioner Forrest have 28 years in the service.

LARGEST IN CANADA

Commissioner Lemieux has headed the force's E division in B.C., largest of the 12 RCMP divisions, since last April. His predecessor, Commissioner C. W. Harvison, takes over as head of the RCMP for all Canada, at Ottawa Friday.

The departing commissioner was born in Valleyfield, Que., in 1904, the son of police chief Wilfred Lemieux, who held that post for 35 years.

Commissioner Lemieux worked in a bank, and later as an accountant at Valleyfield before becoming a town constable. He served on the border patrol (abolished 1932) before joining the RCMP.

He has served widely in the East and on the prairies. Following a course at the National Defence College at Kingston he was appointed director of the special branch at Ottawa for two years and represented Canada on the NATO security committee, serving in Europe.

In 1955 he became officer commanding C division at Montreal, with rank of superintendent. In 1956 he was made assistant commissioner. He is married with three sons.

'UNITY' IN VICTORIA

In a farewell speech to Victoria Rotary today, Commissioner Lemieux complimented Victorians. "These days one hears a lot about Canadian unity. In Victoria they put it into practice. It has been good to know you." He complimented government and civic officials for wholehearted co-operation with his department.

Assistant Commissioner Forrest is also a graduate of the national defence college. He was chief security officer for Canada during the royal tour last year. Married with one son, he will take over the Lemieux home at 2560 Cotswold in Uplands — the same house in which Commissioner Harvison lived. It is known in the neighborhood as "RCMP House."

City to Fight 11% Pay Award

Minister Asked To Reopen Case

Mayor Percy Scurrah today said the city police commission will ask Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to order re-opening of an 11 per cent wage arbitration award for policemen.

Decision was taken at a closed meeting. If the case is re-opened, the same award for city firemen probably would be involved too.

The arbitration award will be attacked on two grounds: first, that it is not justified and, second, that its provisions need clarification to make it workable.

Under arbitration provisions of the Municipal Act, there can be no appeal from an award but on rare occasions the minister of labor has re-constituted the same board to consider amplifying or altering its decision.

Police commission is to meet with city council Friday afternoon to discuss the situation. Aldermen likely will consider ways of offsetting part of the $117,000 increase in police and firemen's wages, caused by the award, possibly by cutting staff.

"The police commission wants the case re-opened to have the award justified," Mayor Scurrah said. He said an arbitration case involving Esquimalt had been re-opened by the labor minister in the past.

"The award is entirely unfair because it upsets the city's wage scales. As it stands at the present time, a police inspector will get within $60 a year of the chief's salary."

The mayor said clarification of the award also was needed to make it workable. Under the award, first class constables were given a flat $3.01 increase to eliminate a differential with firemen before the 11 per cent across-the-board increase was applied.

"Some police officers already get as much as $15 a month more than firemen, so how are we going to reconcile that. We need clarification of the award."

MR. VICTORIA TELEGRAMS POURING IN

Telegrams of congratulation began flowing into Victoria today for George I. Warren, the man whose zeal and energy in the promotion of Vancouver Island as a tourist mecca rightfully earned him the title "Mr. Victoria."

These will be read, and personal salutations added tonight when tourist, business and travel leaders from many parts of Canada and the U.S. gather at the Empress Hotel for the George I. Warren Testimonial Dinner.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross will be among the more than 200 guests paying tribute to Mr. Warren. His Honor will arrive at the hotel at 6.45 p.m. Dinner will start promptly at 7.

Young Burglars Face New Charges

Two more youths drawn into a police net today faced five new charges in a campaign against widespread burglary and theft through Greater Victoria in the past six weeks.

The two—one a juvenile transferred to police court—bring to nine the number of young men aged 16 to 20 who now face a total 25 individual and joint charges in city, Saanich and Esquimalt police courts since Monday.

William Pugh, 16, of 216 Condor, who first appeared in juvenile court, pleaded guilty in city police court to two charges of breaking, entering and theft involving about $100, and two charges of breaking and entering with intent to steal between Feb 27 and last Saturday.

Two others—who accompanied Pugh on different occasions — face the same charges in city police court.

BURGLARY

John York, 19, of 2620 Killarney, was charged with burglary and theft at Braefoot Grocery, 3970 Braefoot, when he appeared in Saanich police court represented by Joseph McKenna, who asked for remand without election to Friday.

In Esquimalt police court today, three youths already involved in about a dozen city charges pleaded guilty to two new joint charges for taking a car without the owner's consent, and one pleaded guilty to burglary and theft at an Esquimalt Road service station.

Teddy Frank Hanaka, 18, of 810 Esquimalt, was charged with breaking into McLeod and Coulter Service Station, 1252 Esquimalt, and taking a five-gallon can of gasoline and two bottles of beer on Feb. 27.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe said the owners missed $130 worth of tools and equipment and 50 cents in pennies, but Hanaka denied being involved.

With Stephen B. White, 18, of 198 Lampson, and Russell Clouston, 18, of Devonshire Hotel, Hanaka was charged jointly with taking a car, property of Esquimalt Service Station, from 1158 Hill around midnight March 20, which was recovered in Nanaimo, and a car owned by Edward Peatt, from 1116 Norman Court, at about the same time.

IN DITCH

The latter auto was driven into a ditch on Cowper Ave., Saanich, by Hanaka, police said. Damage was estimated at $400.

All were remanded for sentence.

Pugh is charged with breaking and entering with intent to steal at Bill's Texaco Service, 760 Esquimalt, March 25; the same charge referring to Stuart's Service Station, 3096 Douglas, on March 19; breaking, entering and theft of $81 cash from Bill's Service, Feb. 28, and again burglary and theft of about $20 from Dutch Bakery and Coffee Shop, 718 Fort, on March 26.

He was remanded for probation report and sentence to April 7.

Handsome Giant Lunch-Hour Treat For Ship-Spotters

Ship-loving Victorians had a lunch-hour look today at one of the handsomest ocean liners afloat, the Orient and Pacific Lines' 28,000-ton Ss. Himalaya.

The white-hulled giant lay off the Dallas Road waterfront for nearly an hour, as she took aboard customs, immigration and quarantine officials.

The ship, with 1,200 passengers aboard, arrived at the pilotage buoy at 11.45, inbound for Vancouver from Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand.

Four hundred passengers were to disembark at Vancouver late this afternoon, and 300 will embark Friday.

The Himalaya will leave Vancouver at 5 p.m. Friday, bound for California, Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong and Manilla on the return voyage to her home port of London via the Suez Canal.

'Supply Depot' for Yeggs Believed Uncovered In Raid

Stolen explosives believed destined for safe-blowing jobs, were recovered Tuesday in a raid on an Orillia Street house by city and Saanich detectives.

Police said 14 sticks of dynamite and nearly a full box of percussion caps (about 100) were found in the basement of the house.

It was believed the explosives were stolen in a burglary of A. J. Barr Ltd., blasting contractor, 4088 Lochside, reported to Saanich police March 14.

Police were of the opinion that the 11 sticks of dynamite missing from a case of 25 were used in one or more of a number of safe-blowing or attempted safe-cracking jobs in Victoria this month.

Possibility of a charge in connection with the find is being considered.

DEAR ABBY

Think Twice, Mother!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I don't get along at all. We have a three-year-old child and I am expecting another. I want to divorce my husband but I couldn't manage on what he could pay me weekly. When the new baby comes, we'll have more expenses and the same income.

Do you think giving up my baby as soon as it's born would be so horrible? I am young yet and want a better life for my son and myself. I could manage with one child but not with two.

If I decide to give up my baby, do I need my husband's consent? Please help me Abby. I feel so lost and mixed up. I am 20 years old.

LOST AND MIXED UP

DEAR LOST: A lawyer can tell you whether you need your husband's consent to give up your baby. But your conscience should tell you that you have a moral obligation to consider the father's wishes. If you feel "lost and mixed up," I urge you to talk to your clergyman, or get in touch with your Family and Children's Agency. You need to "find" yourself and straighten out your thinking before you make a decision as lasting and important as this one.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "ONLY A WIFE" was ridiculous. The lady said her husband never attended the funerals of his aunts or uncles, but he drove half-way across the country to bury his dog. She asked you if you thought her husband was "crazy" and you replied, "He's do-goned normal!"

How can anyone in his right mind think more of a dog than he does of his kin? If your answer expresses your true feelings, then maybe you and that nut ought to get together. You have a lot in common.

LOVER OF MANKIND

DEAR ABBY: Bless you for sticking up for the man who loved his dog enough to drive a thousand miles to lay him to rest. I know how he felt because I loved my dog like that. He was only a mongrel, but I raised him from a pup, and he gave me more unselfish affection than most people I knew. When I was a boy he'd comfort me by letting me cry my troubles into his fur.

He proved his devotion to me when a burglar came into my store. My beloved dog was killed when he intercepted the bullet that was meant to kill me. I would have WALKED from Vancouver to Regina to pay my dog last respect. No one can realize what a dog means to a man unless he has loved one, too. Abby, I'll bet you have a dog, haven't you?

DEAR DOG LOVER: You guessed it!

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

This Column Changed Her Outlook On Life

Today I am printing an article I wrote several years ago. A reader sent me a worn-out copy which she had clipped from her newspaper. She asked me to reprint it because she feels that many of my readers would enjoy it again, and she told me that it completely changed her personality and outlook on daily life.

Josephine

Naturally this is very gratifying to an author. I hope it may mean something to you as it did to this reader. Here is the column:

Yesterday I was walking along a city street in the morning. It was a lovely day. An old woman was leaning on the iron railing in front of her apartment.

Just as this moment the postman came along and greeted the old lady with, "How are you this morning? Are you enjoying the sunshine?" She answered, "No." (Glancing back at the house.) "They all pick on me all the time. Everyone of them! I came out here to get away from it."

I thought how often life picks on us and we pick on each other. We cannot control life and what it does to us entirely but we can stop picking on each other. So often this heckling is done under the banner of being helpful, and really with that idea in mind. However, I wonder if it ever helps much. Husbands criticize wives and wives heckle husbands and both parents pick on their children "for their own good."

Of course children must be taught and trained and it would be a poor marriage if husband and wife could not express disagreement. But I sometimes wonder if the most important thing isn't just being happy together during the days and weeks which are passing so swiftly by, never to be recalled.

So many lovely occasions are ruined by someone who is doing what he or she considers to be his or her duty, or by someone who is fighting for his rights. Children learn best by example, and most negative critical thoughts can be expressed in a positive way. Anyway, we are all so busy working on each other, husbands and wives, parents and children, friends and relatives, that it exhausts me to think of it!

Why can't we just enjoy one another during the little bit of time we have on this lovely earth? Why can't we realize that it is important to get as much happiness as possible out of every passing day and to add as much happiness to the days of others as we can? We must all have a lot of "busybody" in us!

Woman Concert Master In Hamilton Symphony

HAMILTON (CP)—The concert master of the Hamilton Philharmonic Orchestra is a woman.

Mrs. Charles Patrick Short, wife of a sales executive and mother of five, is one of few musicians of her sex to attain such a position.

Mrs. Short began her musical career at the age of four when her father, a Port Hope violin teacher, began to give her piano lessons.

The former Olive Hayden, she was seven when her father handed her a violin. She delighted him with an impromptu performance of "God Save the King."

Mrs. Short still thinks the piano is the best instrument for introducing a child to music.

"It is wise to give a child a few years of piano before putting him on an instrument. It gives him time to learn the full score of music."

She recalls that her father devoted two hours a day to teaching her the violin and that seven months after she began she placed second in a public schools contest open to children of all ages.

"Although it isn't done any more, at the age of nine I was practising four to five hours a day on weekends and holidays and two hours on school days."

She has the normal duties of a concert master, sounding an A for the orchestra to follow in tuning its instruments, playing solo passages, setting the bowing for the first violin section and generally acting as its leader.

Cathedral Wedding Setting

Lily of the valley and tiny silver bells marked pews in St. Andrew's Cathedral for double-ring ceremony that united Kathleen Mary Galvin and Raymond Thomas de Macedo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Galvin, 1190 May Street. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas de Macedo, 920 Sioux Place. Rev. Ralph McDonald officiated at the ceremony. The organist was Miss M. McKay.

Entering the church on arm of her father, the petite bride was gowned in a portrait waltz-length gown of white nylon over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice. A scalloped neckline of Alencon lace sparkled with sequins and pearls. A finger-tip-length veil of illusion net misted from a triple crown of rhinestones and seed pearls. She wore elbow-length white gloves and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white feathered carnations.

ATTENDANTS

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Tubman, chose a ballerina-length gown in shell pink silk organza. A large picture hat and gloves were en tone. Identical gowns in iris blue, featuring lace-tiered skirts and satin cummerbunds, were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Lorna Clark and Miss Genevieve Sowatsky. They wore feathered bandeaux in their hair and matching gloves. The three attendants carried colonial bouquets of feathered carnations and tulip buds.

Tiny three-year-old Debra Tubman, niece of the bride, made a demure flower girl in a dainty dress of pink nylon that featured a lace bodice and full skirt, emphasised by its own crinoline. Her bandeau was of lace. She carried a dainty basket gay with spring flowers.

Niel de Macedo was the best man and ushers were Robert Tubman and Gordon Cumming.

Walter Moir proposed the bridal toast at a reception held in Holyrood House.

For a honeymoon in Seattle the bride chose a beige dress and topcoat and brown accessories. The corsage was of Johanna Hill roses. On their return, the newlyweds will make their home at 131 Menzies Street.

Give Indians Understanding Urges Miss Jessie Oliver

Indians of Canada are "crying for knowledge, freedom from bondage, for understanding and for love," delegates to 34th annual meeting, British Columbia conference branch, United Church Woman's Missionary Society, were told at Wednesday evening's meeting in First United Church hall.

Speaker, Miss Jessie Oliver, home missionary in Indian work, with headquarters in Vancouver, explained that "some misunderstandings exist regarding Indian Canadians and their status."

"In British Columbia the Indians signed no treaty and they do not receive treaty money," she pointed out.

"They do receive pensions and family allowances," she added, "but their privileges are very few. They pay income tax and also pay taxes on purchases made off the reserves."

Miss Oliver described her work which includes visiting in hospitals and homes; counselling and helping students; work with delinquents; visiting reserves and introducing Indians within churches.

AMALGAMATION

Under discussion at the three-day meeting is the need for amalgamation of two active groups of women within the church into one organization.

Each group began with a particular responsibility to carry on behalf of the church. Both organizations have tended to expand and extend their concerns and responsibilities.

In the national field, both groups now seek to promote organization in conference, presbytery and congregation to create interest in the total program of the church.

It is being pointed out that "if this pattern continues it could mean two organizations competing for the loyalty and support of our younger women."

Question presented is "do we want this to happen or should we now, while we are still a young church, seek to develop one unified organization?"

New organization, still in its formative stage, would combine not only the two main groups but all woman's groups, small or large, within the church.

Fish, Snakes Threaten Flood Victims

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Swarms of deadly snakes driven into the open by flood waters Wednesday night were reported threatening homeless victims of the floods still raging in six states of northeastern Brazil.

Piranha fish were reported infesting flooded areas in the states of Piaui and Ceara. The voracious fish can devour a steer in minutes.

Radio messages received here from the interior of Piaui state said many flood victims had been injured by piranha bites as they waded through the floodwaters to the safety of higher ground.

Rains continued over most of the flood area. The crest of the Jaguaribe River flood, which poured out of a gap in the Oros dam, reached the sea Tuesday night after indundating coastal Aracati.

The only confirmed dead were 14 bodies recovered in Ceara and Pernambuco.

PORT HARDY CEREMONY

15th Birthday For B.C. Hydro

Commissioning of a new Port Hardy electrical system April 23 by B.C. Hydro will include celebration of the 15th anniversary of the provincially-owned power agency.

This was announced Wednesday night by B.C. Hydro public information director Lance H. Whittaker in a speech to pulp and sulphite workers at Crofton.

The act establishing B.C. Power Commission, which now employs the name B.C. Hydro, was passed April 17, 1945.

Premier Bennett, who is on holiday, may attend the event, as he has mentioned plans for a coastal boat trip. It is reliably reported the premier is holidaying at present at Palm Springs, although no announcement has been made.

The Port Hardy installation consists of a 1,500 horsepower diesel plant. The Port Hardy utility system is the 28th to be taken over by the B.C. Hydro. It was previously served by three private plants.

Dan Campbell (SC-Comox) will unveil a monument during the ceremonies. A mounted flywheel from one of the commission's earliest diesel plants will be used as the central design motif.

Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.

5 GRADES TO CHOOSE FROM!

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding ornamented from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.
The design of "FOREST" siding ensured a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.
"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

HOCKEY GAME AT 7 TRIGGERS BIG NIGHT OF SPECIAL SHOWS

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

NO COMEDY—Owing to the nature of my business some items must be accomplished in a hurry in the name of "deadline." Therefore, to my embarrassment, I would record that in the thumbnail sketch of Startime's Tuesday night offering I inadvertently suggested that it was a comedy. And, as those who viewed it will attest, it was as opposed to comedy as Poe is to, say, Ludwig Bemelmans.

What I didn't realize was that "The Young Juggler" was based on a French legend which formed the warp and woof of Anatole France's short story, "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame." And it had to do with a form of symbolism that I, personally, am not fond of or even reconciled to in a play. So, of course, any review of mine is bound to be tinged with bias, albeit unintentional.

As the street juggler who betrays his best friend in 16th-century France Tony Curtis proved sadly one-toned, catching few of the lights and shadows necessary for the character who was such a devil with the ladies that he was forced to seek sanctuary with a group of monks to save his miserable life from revenge-seeking and embittered husbands.

Of course Prior Andry, played well-meaningly but woodenly by Nehemiah Persoff, and his brother friars attempt to show juggler Curtis the error of his ways. But it is left, seemingly, to a statue to accomplish what the monks couldn't and, at the same time, teach the good men that the best a person could offer—in this case juggling skill—was as acceptable as anything else.

In no way wishing to provoke any form of religious controversy I would end by saying that I find this type of play personally objectionable. I have never cared for themes in which man-made statues are allowed to become "warm" or come to life or be invested with or associated with the miraculous.

GOOD NEWS—In spite of the number of "special" dramas this season I refuse to believe that Old Evil Eye is nearly as potent as he was only a season or two ago when he delivered such weekly tasties as Robert Montgomery Presents, Studio One, Kraft Theatre and Climax—all casualities to ennui, don't-give-a-darnism and westernitis.

However, there is hope yet. According to Gordon Reid, KVOS president, Channel 12 has purchased the 39-week and much-discussed dramatic series called "The Play of the Week."

This, some may remember, is the series that New York drama critic Brooks Atkinson labelled the "finest series in the field of TV entertainment," and one that was doomed to die on WNTA-TV, an independent station, until aroused viewers in the New York area poured 28,000 letters into the station to protest its demise and an oil company saved the day by agreeing to pay the bill.

I will let you know later when it is due to start.

Poor Salmon Run Seen for Skeena

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER — Concern over the all-time low anticipated this year in the Skeena River sockeye salmon run is bringing about moves to have 1960 fishing regulations eased.

The government-appointed Skeena Salmon Management Committee, which has been working on rehabilitation and conservation measures since the Babine slide of 1951-52, is recommending to the department of fisheries that opening date for sockeye be set ahead one week to start July 10.

The committee said it is expected that the 1960 sockeye run will be small, composed of four-year-olds from the 1956 spawning and five-year-olds from the 1955 spawning.

The department of fisheries described the 1955 spawning as "the poorest on record for the Skeena" and predicted it will provide a total return of less than 200,000 salmon.

MILLIONS LOST

VANCOUVER — City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said in court Wednesday $1,367,495 worth of goods were stolen here last year and only $197,205 worth of it was recovered. He was commenting during the trial of Charles Kline, 29, who pleaded guilty to possessing $4,000 in stolen gods and was remanded for sentence.

NO BASES FOR CHARGES

PORT MOODY—The deputy provincial attorney-general says there is apparently no basis for charges that Port Moody police used brutality in the arrest of five youths on theft charges last December.

The attorney-general's department was called in to investigate charges by two of the five youths arrested December 19 that they were maltreated.

In a letter to Port Moody Mayor D. Roy Petrie, chairman of the police commission in the Vancouver suburb, the deputy attorney-general, Gilbert Kennedy, said there "would appear to be no basis for the charges" against Chief A. W. Kruger and his men.

During their trial, police said three of the youths were left handcuffed to posts in different parts of the station for periods up to four hours. The handcuffing came because they were noisy and abusive in a group, police said, and there was only one vacant cell at the station.

JURY SPLIT

VANCOUVER—An all-male jury failed to reach a verdict Wednesday in the murder trial of 28-year-old William Froehlich, charged in the beating death of a 73-year-old man.

The jury considered its verdict for seven hours. No date was set for a re-trial.

Temboulas Djibiloff died in hospital, February 8, from a brain injury. He was found beaten in a downtown hotel room last December 15. Froehlich denied attacking the man.

BROKEN GAS MAIN

VANCOUVER — Traffic was re-routed for nearly two hours here Wednesday when a gas main burst on an uptown street. An apartment block was evacuated and the fire department stood by as the eight-inch main spurted gas for two hours. There was no explosion.

PROBE ORDERED

VANCOUVER — RCMP said today they have asked their Ontario headquarters to interview a man who turned up at his home seven months after he was thought to be dead.

They said Robert Spicer, 28, a contractor and father of five children, thought to have been murdered or accidentally drowned in nearby Howe Sound in September, turned up at his home at Ingleside, Ont., near Cornwall.

The possibility of murder was voiced by police after a car Spicer had borrowed from friends Sept. 3 was found in Howe Sound near Porteau, 20 miles northwest of here.

The body could not be found.

INCREASE RECOMMENDED

VANCOUVER — A conciliation board has recommended a wage increase of seven cents an hour for Vancouver's 1,500 civic outside workers. The union demanded a 20-cent-an-hour increase and various fringe benefits and rejected a city offer of a 3¼ per cent increase. The workers will vote on the award Friday night.

SPECIAL MEETING

VANCOUVER — A special meeting of officers of the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) has been called for next week to discuss the unemployment situation.

Pat O'Neal, federation secretary, announced today the meeting will be called to consider what labor can do about a situation that is resulting in "people losing homes and furniture" while "the government is doing nothing."

He said the latest figures show there were 80,085 persons out of work in the Pacific region on Feb. 18. The figures had probably increased since then.

RCAF EUROPE DIVISION TO BE CUT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to disband one-third of the RCAF air division in Europe when the supersonic CF-104 goes into service, informants said Wednesday.

The one-third which would be dismantled comprises the four CF-100 jet squadrons serving in the air division in France and West Germany.

The eight Sabre jet squadrons in the 12-squadron division are to be equipped with the CF-104. Canadair Limited, Montreal, is toooling up for CF-104 production and the first plane is scheduled to fly in April next year.

The air division will be supplied with 200 CF-104s at a cost of $420,000,000 but there is no current plan to replace the CF-100s.

Miss Roberts joined the Canadian School of Ballet in Kelowna this year.

School Given As Scout Hall

BRENTWOOD — Saanich District 63 School Board has given Brentwood Boy Scouts permission to use the old Brentwood school as a Scout hall.

Scouts will renew roofing and install a heating unit. Trustees refused to allow them a 15-year lease, but will work out a plan whereby Scouts will be compensated for their work if the building is required again for use as a school.

Ganges Bakery Bought By Couple

GANGES — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradley have bought McGill's Bakery here from Henry McGill, who will start work later this year as director of restaurant services in a Seattle shopping centre.

He will continue as a director of the bakery, and Robert Taylor will remain in his position of production manager.

LEMMON, STEWART MAY REPEAT

Will Longshots Make It in Oscar Derby Monday?

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Each year the Oscar Derby comes up with a few upsets, quirks, zany statistics and oddities. Next Monday's running of the Academy Award Stakes promises to provide its share.

At post time the favorites are:

Best Picture—"Ben-Hur."

Best Actor—Charlton Heston (Ben-Hur).

Best Actress—Audrey Hepburn (The Nun's Story).

Best Supporting Actor—Arthur O'Connell (Anatomy of a Murder).

Best Supporting Actress—Susan Kohner (Imitation of Life).

However, some new records could be entered into the books if some of the longshots come through.

For instance, if Jack Lemmon (Some Like It Hot) wins he would be the first actor in academy history to cop an Oscar in both the best actor and best supporting actor categories. He won best supporting honors for "Mister Roberts" back in 1955.

SELECT GROUP

If James Stewart (Anatomy of a Murder) or Paul Muni (The Last Angry Man) come through, he would join a select group of two-time winners, the others being Gary Cooper, Frederic March and Spencer Tracy.

All-time champ is Walter Brennen, who has won three supporting awards.

Five actresses have won two Oscars—Ingrid Bergman, Bette Davis, Luise Rainer, Vivien Leigh and Olivia de Havilland. If either Audrey Hepburn or Katharine Hepburn (Suddenly, Last Summer) win, she would make it six. Both are previous winners.

A peculiarity that occurs periodically in the competition is the nomination of two performers in the same category for their work in a single movie.

This year it is Elizabeth Taylor and Katharine Hepburn for "Suddenly, Last Summer." Last year it was Tony Curtis vs. Sidney Poitier in "The Defiant Ones."

South Africa Close to Reign of Terror

By GERALD CLARK
(Special To The Times)

JOHANNESBURG — The full tragedy of South Africa was apparent today as the proclamation of a state of emergency began to take effect.

The government of Hendrik Verwoerd has dictatorial powers, and the rule of law has ended. The police can arrest anyone, without warrant, and keep him in custody for any length of time. There is no longer any such thing as a writ of habeas corpus.

The press is throttled, and cannot even publish the names of persons arrested.

Censorship of outgoing cabled messages is possible at any moment. This reporter last night was barred from doing a radio broadcast to New York.

But most tragic of all is the extreme strain now placed on relations between whites and Africans—with the aftermath anybody's guess.

The emergency proclamation came in just about the time 30,000 Africans marched into Capetown, demanding the release of their leaders arrested earlier in the day. The marchers, on a column a mile long, jammed the streets around the main police station and chanted "Afrika, Afrika." Then they marched peacefully back to their settlements, having made their point.

Even without their recognized leaders, the Africans possess immense powers of spontaneous collective action. This has always been implicit in the South African situation. But now, inflamed and agitated, and without the restraining influence of moderate leaders, they are capable of defying even the police and army bullets.

The physical clash of nationalism has begun, and there are no longer contacts between the reasonable Africans and the authorities for a discussion of grievances. Any Liberal white who maintains political touch with an African runs the risk of arrest.

Foreign reporters are now beseeched by white Liberals to be careful what they write about them. If it is not exactly a reign of terror, it is close to it.

This is the first state of emergency in South Africa in 38 years. It is also the gravest moment since the crisis developed 10 days ago.

The proclamation caught a nation already stunned by sudden wholesale arrests of whites and non-whites. It was broadcast repeatedly over South Africa radio—in English, Afrikaan and Bantu languages. And in its wake came government orders calling up units of the active citizen force, the equivalent of the United States National Guard. The implicit next stop is total curfew and martial law if situation continues to deteriorate.

The trial of strength has been brewing for

DRAMATIC RESCUE FROM ICE FLOE

Perched on tip of 100-foot aerial ladder, fireman Henry Rasmussen shouts instructions to David Thorton, 13, who became trapped on ice floe in Humber River, along with friend Ricky Irons, 8, after it broke away from shore near Toronto. After it jammed downstream, firemen put out ladder and boys tied ropes around themselves and were pulled to safety. (CP photo)

Huge Negro Rally Shouts Defiance

SEE OTHER AFRICA STORIES PAGES 5, 6

Police Squads Use Nightsticks

CAPETOWN (CP)—Thousands of angry Negroes assembled in a native area near Durban, South Africa, today and shouted their defiance to government emergency orders commanding them to return to work and end their campaign for greater rights.

They poured down from the hills and assembled into a crowd of between 5,000 and 6,000, shouting down police orders to disperse.

The giant rally came as police charged twice with nightsticks to disperse demonstrating crowds near Johannesburg, one of the main trouble spots in the unrest sweeping the country.

The crowd at Cato Manor, near Durban, surged around armored cars trying to block their path, and shouted demands for the release of leaders of the campaign for Negro rights, arrested Wednesday.

A press car which entered the native township was ordered out by leaders of the crowd.

"Take a picture at your peril," they told a photographer. "We will kill you."

The crowd stoned buses and brought them to a halt. The violence subsided only after the chief magistrate and native commissioner of the area agreed to meet demonstrators in the local soccer ground.

SEALED OFF

More than 3,000 armed white soldiers and sailors sealed off two big Negro settlements near here.

The navy men formed a cordon around the Nyanga township while the army encircled Langa. Nobody was allowed to enter or leave the settlements.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd carried out his threat to use regular armed forces to prevent new Negro demonstrations after rounding up more than 200 leaders of the campaign of defiance against the government's race laws. Some white Liberals and Indians were among those arrested.

A big army convoy meanwhile moved into Johannesburg, 800 miles north of this parliamentary capital, amid rumors that Negroes were planning a march on Fort Johannesburg Prison, where many of their leaders are held.

DISPERSE CROWD

Police were forced to make a baton charge on a crowd of about 100 who became threatening in the Jahavu area southwest of Johannesburg this morning. The crowd then dispersed.

Police said at Natalspruit, southwest of Johannesburg, railroad tracks were loosened and a stone roadblock thrown up on a highway. Police dispersed a crowd of about 150 near the roadblock.

The South African Parliament met through the night to speed action on legislation for the outlawing of the African National Congress, the Pan Africanist Congress and other organizations accused of plotting a "massive revolt."

JAILED NEGRO LEADER NEEDS MEDICAL CARE

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — A defence lawyer appealed today for hospital treatment for Albert Luthuli, leader of the African National Congress, arrested Wednesday in a police roundup of campaigners for Negro rights.

Lawyer Israel Maisels said Luthuli, a defence witness at the marathon treason trial here, is seriously ill with high blood pressure and needs immediate hospital treatment. Luthuli told the treason hearing Wednesday that he was struck twice in prison after his arrest.

Ghana Urges Appeal To S. Africa

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Ghana asked the security council today to delegate the United States and Britain to appeal to South Africa to come to terms with leaders of the country's anti-segregationist movement.

If South Africa refuses to respond to the appeal, Ghanian Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sockey told the council, economic or diplomatic sanctions should be levied against it by the United Nations.

The suggestion from Ghana, the former British Gold Coast colony in West Africa, came as the security council started its second day's debate on race killings which took 70 to 80 lives 10 days ago when police fired on mass demonstrators against the apartheid policy.

South Africa maintained its boycott of the debate, although its delegation took seats in a far corner of the security council chamber.

Ottawa to Renew Coal Export Subsidy

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will continue to give assistance payments on Nova Scotia and New Brunswick coal shipped to Ontario and Quebec and on Alberta and British Columbia coal for export during the 1960-61 fiscal year, it was announced today. Rates will be the same as under the present subvention program expiring today.

Station Blast Kills 5

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — An explosion blew apart a gasoline service station in downtown Auburn Wednesday night and killed three firemen, the station owner and another person. Two women, residents of an apartment building next door, were injured and taken to a hospital in this Central New York State city.

LOUISIANA PROTEST

Angry Negroes Quit College

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Enraged students at all-Negro Southern University quit school today because university officials refused to restore 18 of their fellows expelled for leading segregation protests.

The state-operated university was faced with the prospect of being left with only a handful of the 5,400 students enrolled.

The entire student body held a tumultuous pep rally instead of attending classes and decided to "form a double line to the president's office and withdraw."

That was not necessary, however, and long before the set time for forming the line students swarmed into the dean of men's office and began filling out withdrawal slips.

OUT OF SLIPS

The school ran out of withdrawal slips in 15 minutes and the students had to start using pink registration slips, writing on the back that "I officially withdraw as of March 31, 1960." Students were jammed outside the building waiting to get in.

A school official who refused to be identified said, "This has nothing to do with integration. What they're trying to do now is bargain with university officials. We can't bargain with them."

The national budget will be brought down in Parliament tonight by Finance Minister Fleming.

Friday's Times will carry full coverage of the main points, with interpretations how they will affect the individual taxpayer and the business man.

Columbia Talks

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian and American negotiators today opened their third round of joint development of the Columbia River. The closed-door session will end Friday.

Houses Set Aflame As Big Jet Crashes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A flaming six-engine jet bomber exploded over Little Rock today and rained debris and death in its plunge near the state capital.

At least five persons, including three crewmen, were killed. Two civilians were known dead.

Flaming debris set seven or more houses afire.

One airman parachuted to safety but was burned seriously.

The B-47 bomber had taken off only 10 minutes earlier on a training flight from its station at Little Rock Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command facility. A base spokesman said the plane was capable of carrying nuclear weapons but had none aboard.

DIGS FIERY HOLE

One giant piece of wreckage dug a fiery 25-foot wide hole in a residential section near the capitol building.

The fuselage crashed into the home of Mrs. A. L. Clark, two miles from the state capitol. She was trapped and perished in the flames spread by the debris.

The body of another civilian, Jimmy Hollobaugh, 27, was pulled from the debris near the capitol. Nothing was left of his home except the foundation.

Bodies of two of the airmen were recovered from the wreckage near Mrs. Clark's home. The Air Force said the body of the third crewman also had been found.

20-Minute Power Cut Hits City

Greater Victoria went powerless at 12:41 p.m. today.

A major break in power stopped all electrical services for 20 minutes, before an emergency circuit was cut in.

Lights flicked on again at 1:01 p.m. in some sections, while the city still wondered what had caused the big failure.

B.C. Electric telephone lines were jammed, but officials were unable to tell what caused the break.

Pedestrians and cars wound up in tangled confusion at downtown intersections where traffic signals stopped functioning.

Power was reported cut at Langford and Colwood but not at Brentwood.

Service was resumed by switching into an emergency cable from the Jordan River station.

Some telephone services were disrupted as switchboards in individual buildings lost power supply.

The break caused a delay in the publication of today's Times.

FRANCE CLEARS SAHARA FOR 2ND A-BOMB TEST

PARIS (AP)—France today placed its vast atomic testing area in the Sahara Desert out of bounds to aircraft starting Friday morning—a necessary prelude to a second atomic test blast.

The French have been ready for some time to conduct their second atomic test. It was felt they would not do so while Soviet Premier Khrushchev is visiting France.

Khrushchev resumes top-level talks with President de Gaulle tonight.

Khrushchev expressed opposition to further atomic tests by France, or anyone else. His reaction to any French atomic test while he is in the country would likely be acid.

'ENCOURAGING STEP'

Russia to Study West A-Ban Plan

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and Britain formally submitted the Camp David plan for a nuclear test ban to the Soviet Union today.

The plan challenges the Soviet Union to remove obstacles to a partial test ban treaty by agreeing to control details.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the Western proposals are "an encouraging step forward," but require extensive clarification.

He said he will submit questions on the plan at subsequent meetings of the three-power treaty negotiations after the Camp David proposals, worked out by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, have been carefully studied in Moscow.

In the 10-power disarmament conference also sitting in Geneva, Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, proposed that a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests be linked to a promise from world powers to renounce aggression and use of atomic and hydrogen weapons. He said these steps should be taken in advance of a general disarmament treaty.

If this approach is accepted, Zorin maintained, it will open the way to solution of the nuclear problem as a whole and represent "an important act of confidence."

The Western powers described Zorin's move as an attempt to commit them to a moral obligation which cannot be enforced.

'China Must Cut Arms Too'—Soviet

GENEVA (AP) — Western delegations were informed today the Soviet Union will insist on Communist China adhering to any world disarmament agreement.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin made this point at the 10-nation disarmament conference, in which the Red Peking government is not represented.

SPRING FLOOD HITS ONTARIO

TORONTO (UPI) — A spring thaw in southern Ontario today brought flooding that was blamed for the drowning death of a Guelph boy and marooned two trains in Meaford.

Drizzling rain meanwhile added to the threat of rising rivers and streams as mild weather moved in from the flood-ravaged U.S. Midwest.

LONDON PRESS BLASTS VERWOERD

'Things Can Never Be the Same Again'

LONDON (CP) — British newspapers today sharply criticized South Africa for arresting champions of Negro rights and declaring a state of emergency.

The story was carried under front page banner headlines in most papers.

The Liberal News Chronicle says South Africa now is "under a full dictatorship" and "virtually on a war footing."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, says: "things can never be the same in South Africa again."

The Times, Independent, says actions of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd present the "frightening spectacle of a man whom the gods wish to destroy and are depriving of wisdom."

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror comments: "This power-mad rule of South Africa is deliberately smashing the few bridges of understanding now left between the 3,000,000 whites of South Africa and the 10,000,000 Africans whom they dominate."

Seems in' Bomare's gittin' low marks.

Economic Future Bright—Grauer

VANCOUVER (CP) — A. E. Grauer, president of British Columbia Power Corporation, predicted today that Canada's gross national product will rise to an all-time high of almost $37,000,000,000 in 1960.

Mr. Grauer said also that business and government investment in the country will be the largest in history if department of trade and commerce estimates are realized.

"This would mean a capital program totalling $8,800,000,000, four per cent above 1959 and slightly higher than the previous peak of $8,700,000,000 established in 1957, he said.

Addressing the annual meeting of B.C. Power shareholders, he said, there was no reason to expect any significant increase in industrial prices unless trade unions force extraordinary wage increases.

An expected improvement in the already high level of consumer spending would be one of the main stimuli for good economic activity throughout the year.

INCREASED SPENDING

Spending by provinces and municipalities is expected to increase in 1960, he said, but federal government expenditures would be about the same as in 1959.

Ottawa was committed to the policy of containing expenditures and balancing its budget and this should relieve pressure on interest rates.

This, he added, would release capital for needs of the provinces, municipalities and private investment.

A decline in home construction was expected due to heavy demands for capital in other sectors of the economy.

Automobile sales across Canada were running above 1959 and this should prove the second best year on record, although below expectations.

He said British Columbia's forest products industry had shown a marked improvement through 1959 and would continue this trend in 1960, particularly in pulp and newsprint.

Mr. Grauer warned, however, that lumber and plywood demands may be off if housing slumps much in the United States.

Boeing Reports Added Interest In Bomarc Missile

SEATTLE (CP) — Several countries have shown an interest in the Bomarc ground-to-air missile since Canada decided to buy it, the Boeing Airplane Company said Wednesday.

In its annual report to stockholders, the company made no mention of United States defence department plans to slash appropriations for the Bomarc for the 1961 fiscal year to $50,000,000 from $420,000,000.

But the report said that "after selection of Bomarc by the Canadian government as one of its principal defence weapons, several other countries have developed an interest in Bomarc."

Boeing said it has put new emphasis on research, diversification and marketing in an effort to improve its competitive position.

Ogilvie Mills Earnings Decline

MONTREAL (CP) — Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd. had net earnings of $974,590, or $1.21 a share, for the six months ended Feb. 29, 1959, compared with $1,116,592, or $1.40 a share, for the same period last year.

Ogilvie Flour said the decrease in earnings was because there were no profits on sale of investments during the last six-month period. In 1959 profit on sales of investments was $232,517.

Business Failures Increased In 1959

OTTAWA (CP)—There were more and bigger commercial failures in Canada last year than in 1958, the Bureau of Statistics has reported.

AN EXAMPLE OF NEW ART FORM from the far north which soon will be available to Victorians is colored print entitled "Man hunting at seal hole". It was made by Niviaksiak, a great Eskimo artist who died in a hunting accident last year. (Times photo by Irving Strickland.)

The Arctic Lives in Exciting Color Prints As Eskimo Art at Premium Across Canada

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sensational and exciting are the words to describe a series of Eskimo prints which have been bought by a Victoria art and craft dealer for sale here.

The prints, which have aroused the interest of art lovers in Canada and the United States have been sent by the Department of Northern Affairs to Mrs. Bessie FitzGerald, proprietor of the Quest for Handicrafts Ltd., at the corner of Government and Fort.

It's a new type of Eskimo art.

The graphic art works come from a native co-operative centre at Cape Dorset on a small island off the coast of south-east Baffin Island. The tiny community has already achieved fame for its stone carvings.

Mrs. FitzGerald plans to exhibit the prints before selling them.

ONLY 39 PRINTS

But you can count yourself lucky if you can buy one. There are only two lots, each containing 39 different prints.

Mrs. FitzGerald admits that the "ease of selling them" is going to be a problem.

Art dealers in all major centres across Canada have also received small supplies, but the demand has far exceeded the number of prints available.

This has resulted in people from Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa wiring and writing to Mrs. FitzGerald asking her to set aside prints for them. The letters and telegrams come in every day.

RESERVED FOR LOCALS

"As far as I'm concerned the prints are for people in this area," Mrs. FitzGerald said.

The prints are reproduced by the Eskimos by two different techniques—stenciling and stone-block printing. In the first, the Eskimo artist cuts a design on a piece of sealskin and pigment is brushed into the cut-out areas. Then prints are made.

In the second, a design is cut into shale-like pieces of stone and inked for print making. The stone is quarried about 100 miles from Cape Dorset and is brought to the settlement either by boat or by dog-sled.

These two techniques were taught to the Eskimos by James Houston, a department of Northern Affairs' area administrator, who some years ago brought Eskimo stone sculpture to public attention. Mr. Houston is stationed at Cape Dorset.

It takes an Eskimo about a week to make a stone carving. Then he brings it to the craft centre and the Eskimo printers have a look at it. If there are any flaws in the block, such as high spots, the block will be cut down by the artist. The artist then suggests the colors which he thinks would be preferable for the design and sometimes helps with the printing process.

The Eskimos mainly use three colors for their prints—black, blue and red. The red is made from iron rust from locally found iron, while the residue at the bottom of seal oil lamp is used to produce black paint.

To the Eskimo the prints are important because they permit him to express his views and outlook on life. In his pictures he reveals his dreams . . . the rhythm of a flight of birds and the wonder of nature.

The white polar bear to the white man is but a powerful animal good for its skin. But to the Eskimo, the bear which provides him with both clothing and food, is more than that. He too possesses a spirit.

Among the drawings are some executed by a Cape Dorset Eskimo named Niviaksiak, who died in a hunting accident this year at the age of 30. He was known by his people as a great hunter and artist.

The drawings of Nviaksiak have now become collectors items. Some are included in Mrs. FitzGerald's collection. His birds and animals all breathe life. Their simplicity are their chief attraction.

Another artist is Shekoalock, who also died last year in a had no schooling, but was becoming an excellent graphic artist until his career was cut short.

Others include Kananginka, an excellent carver and print maker. He is president of the West Baffin Eskimo Co-operative.

One of the most striking aspects of the prints is the colors. They give you the feel of the north—the blue is blue of the arctic sea, the black of the landscape and the reddish-brown the evening sky.

Strachan to Press Right to Present Peace Power Brief

Opposition leader Robert Strachan today indicated he will seek the opportunity to present a brief to forthcoming Public Utilities Commission hearings on the Peace River development plan.

But chairman of the PUC, Dr. H. F. Angus said this morning, "political parties have their own forum in the legislature and should not appear before us."

Mr. Strachan said this is not the case. "The legislature was denied access to documents pertaining to the Peace River Power Development. In a standing vote, Social Credit members refused to have these tabled. Dr. Angus is wrong when he says political parties can discuss the Peace River proposals in the legislature."

Mr. Strachan would not outline at this time what steps his party will take to continue before the PUC, its battle against private development of the Peace. His party has argued in the house this development cannot help but provide more costly power than the Columbia River, which is to be developed publicly.

Private companies must pay corporation taxes and share dividends, the CCF states, greatly adding to the ultimate cost to the consumer.

The matter blew up again today when it was announced in Vancouver that Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston wrote the PRFD president W. C. Mainwaring. He said the government has now approved the report of water comptroller A. F. Paget. Mr. Paget, with consulting engineers, has spent three months studying the feasability report of Peace engineering.

With some changes suggested, he has declared, the $638,000,000 development plan sound.

"Your company is now in position to make the necessary applications, first to the Public Utilities Commission, and then to the water rights branch, for the required certificate and licence," Mr. Williston wrote.

No one was able to state today, when the hearing would be held by the PUC.

Dr. Angus said he will await application by the PRFD before deciding where or when the hearings would open. Asked who could submit briefs, he said every interested party is entitled to be heard.

However, private citizens, who might consider themselves shareholders in the proposed public development of the Columbia (which could be delayed by the Peace) would not likely be entitled to hearing. "We can't have a million people appearing," said Dr. Angus.

SHUFFLE

RCMP Chief Gets Post At Ottawa

British Columbia's senior RCMP officer, Assistant Commissioner Joseph R. Lemieux, 56, has been appointed deputy commissioner at RCMP headquarters, Ottawa.

He will leave Victoria during the latter part of April. His successor is Assistant Commissioner Douglas O. Forrest, 52, who will arrive here from Ottawa shortly after.

The RCMP also announced today the posting to Victoria from Prince Rupert of Sub. Inspector W. B. Irving, who takes over as second CIB officer here, replacing Insp. Carl Ledoux, who retired recently. Insp. Irving arrives today.

Both Commissioner Lemieux and Commissioner Forrest have 28 years in the service.

LARGEST IN CANADA

Commissioner Lemieux has headed the force's E division in B.C., largest of the 12 RCMP divisions, since last April. His predecessor, Commissioner C. W. Harvison, takes over as head of the RCMP for all Canada, at Ottawa Friday.

The departing commissioner was born in Valleyfield, Que., in 1904, the son of police chief Wilfred Lemieux, who held that post for 35 years.

Commissioner Lemieux worked in a bank, and later as an accountant at Valleyfield before becoming a town constable. He served on the border patrol (abolished 1932) before joining the RCMP.

He has served widely in the East and on the prairies. Following a course at the National Defence College at Kingston he was appointed director of the special branch at Ottawa for two years and represented Canada on the NATO security committee, serving in Europe.

In 1955 he became officer commanding C division at Mohtreal, with rank of superintendent. In 1956 he was made assistant commissioner. He is married with three sons.

'UNITY' IN VICTORIA

In a farewell speech to Victoria Rotary today, Commissioner Lemieux complimented Victorians. "These days one hears a lot about Canadian unity. In Victoria they put it into practice. It has been good to know you." He complimented government and civic officials for wholehearted co-operation with his department.

Assistant Commissioner Forrest is also a graduate of the national defence college. He was chief security officer for Canada during the royal tour last year. Married with one son, he will take over the Lemieux home at 2560 Cotswold in Uplands — the same house in which Commissioner Harvison lived. It is known in the neighborhood as "RCMP House."

City to Fight 11% Pay Award

Minister Asked To Reopen Case

Mayor Percy Scurrah today said the city police commission will ask Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to order re-opening of an 11 per cent wage arbitration award for policemen.

Decision was taken at a closed meeting. If the case is re-opened, the same award for city firemen probably would be involved too.

The arbitration award will be attacked on two grounds: first, that it is not justified and, second, that its provisions need clarification to make it workable.

Under arbitration provisions of the Municipal Act, there can be no appeal from an award but on rare occasions the minister of labor has re-constituted the same board to consider, amplifying or altering its decision.

Police commission is to meet with city council Friday afternoon to discuss the situation. Aldermen likely will consider ways of offsetting part of the $117,000 increase in police and firemen's wages, caused by the award, possibly by cutting staff.

"The police commission wants the case re-opened to have the award justified," Mayor Scurrah said. He said an arbitration case involving Esquimalt had been re-opened by the labor minister in the past.

"The award is entirely unfair because it upsets the city's wage scales. As it stands at the present time, a police inspector will get within $60 a year of the chief's salary."

The mayor said clarification of the award also was needed to make it workable. Under the award, first class constables were given a flat $3.01 increase to eliminate a differential with firemen before the 11 per cent across-the-board increase was applied.

"Some police officers already get as much as $15 a month more than firemen, so how are we going to reconcile that. We need clarification of th award."

MR. VICTORIA TELEGRAMS POURING IN

Telegrams of congratulation began flowing into Victoria today for George I. Warren, the man whose zeal and energy in the promotion of Vancouver Island as a tourist mecca rightfully earned him the title "Mr. Victoria."

These will be read, and personal salutations added tonight when tourist, business and travel leaders from many parts of Canada and the U.S. gather at the Empress Hotel for the George I. Warren Testimonial Dinner.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross will be among the more than 200 guests paying tribute to Mr. Warren. His Honor will arrive at the hotel at 6.45 p.m. Dinner will start promptly at 7.

Handsome Giant Lunch-Hour Treat For Ship-Spotters

Ship-loving Victorians had a lunch-hour look today at one of the handsomest ocean liners afloat, the Orient and Pacific Lines' 28,000-ton Ss. Himalaya.

The white-hulled, giant lay off the Dallas Road waterfront for nearly an hour, as she took aboard customs, immigration and quarantine officials.

The ship, with 1,200 passengers aboard, arrived at the pilotage buoy at 11.45, inbound for Vancouver from Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand.

Four hundred passengers were to disembark at Vancouver late this afternoon, and 300 will embark Friday.

The Himalava will leave Vancouver at 5 p.m. Friday, bound for California, Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong and Manilla on the return voyage to her home port of London via the Suez Canal.

Young Burglars Face New Charges

Two more youths drawn into a police net today faced five new charges in a campaign against widespread burglary and theft through Greater Victoria in the past six weeks.

The two one a juvenile transferred to police court bring to nine the number of young men aged 16 to 20 who now face a total 25 individual and joint charges in city, Saanich and Esquimalt police courts since Monday.

William Pugh, 16, of 216 Condor, who first appeared in juvenile court, pleaded guilty in city police court to two charges of breaking, entering and theft involving about $100, and two charges of breaking and entering with intent to steal between Feb. 27 and last Saturday.

Two others — who accompanied Pugh on different occasions — face the same charges in city police court.

BURGLARY

John York, 19, of 2620 Kilarney, was charged with burglary and theft at Braefoot Grocery, 3970 Braefoot, when he appeared in Saanich police court represented by Joseph McKenna, who asked for remand without election to Friday.

In Esquimalt police court today, three youths already involved in about a dozen city charges pleaded guilty to two new joint charges for taking a car without the owner's consent, and one pleaded guilty to burglary and theft at an Esquimalt Road service station.

Teddy Frank Hanaka, 18, of 810 Esquimalt, was charged with breaking into McLeod and Coulter Service Station, 1252 Esquimalt, and taking a five-gallon can of gasoline and two bottles of beer on Feb. 27.

Chief Gilbert Stancombe said the owners missed $130 worth of tools and equipment and 50 cents in pennies, but Hanaka denied being involved.

With Stephen B. White, 18, of 198 Lampson, and Russell Clouston, 18, of Devonshire Hotel, Hanaka was charged jointly with taking a car, property of Esquimalt Service Station, from 1158 Hill around midnight March 20, which was recovered in Nanaimo, and a car owned by Edward Peatt, from 1116 Norman Court, at about the same time.

IN DITCH

The latter auto was driven into a ditch on Cowper Ave., Saanich, by Hanaka, police said. Damage was estimated at $400.

All were remanded for sentence.

Pugh is charged with breaking and entering with intent to steal at Bill's Texaco Service, 760 Esquimalt, March 25; the same charge referring to Stuart's Service Station, 3096 Douglas, on March 19; breaking, entering and theft of $81 cash from Bill's Service, Feb. 28, and again burglary and theft of about $20 from Dutch Bakery and Coffee Shop, 718 Fort, on March 26.

He was remanded for probation report and sentence to April 7.

'Supply Depot' for Yeggs Believed Uncovered In Raid

Stolen explosives believed destined for safe-blowing jobs were recovered Tuesday in a raid on an Orillia Street house by city and Saanich detectives.

Police said 14 sticks of dynamite and nearly a full box of percussion caps (about 100) were found in the basement of the house.

It was believed the explosives were stolen in a burglary of A. J. Barr Ltd., blasting contractor, 4088 Lochside, reported to Saanich police March 14.

Police were of the opinion that the 11 sticks of dynamite missing from a case of 25 were used in one or more of a number of safe-blowing or attempted safe-cracking jobs in Victoria this month.

Possibility of a charge in connection with the find is being considered.

NEW PRESIDENT of 100-member Victoria Electric Club is J. A. (Jack) De Bourcier, manager, Northern Electric Co. Ltd., Victoria. Vice-presidents are Lance Whittaker, public relations director, B.C. 7 Remanded In Packing Plant Dispute

BRANDON (CP)—A one-day remand was granted today to seven members of the United Packing House Workers of America charged with obstructing the passage of a city-owned grader through picket lines at the Brandon Packers Limited plant.

Yul Brynner Wed During Film Break

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Screen star Yul Brynner was married today to Doris Kleiner during a break in the filming of his latest movie on location in Cuernavaca.

U.S. Rail Unions Reject Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eleven non-operating railroad unions today rejected arbitration of their wage dispute with U.S. railroads.

The unions represent about 650,000 workers in maintenance and similar work but not train operating crews.

Prosecution Ends In Sugar Case

WINNIPEG (UPI)—The prosecution for the federal justice department today wound up its case at the trial of two British Columbia sugar firms charged with monopoly practices.

The trial was adjourned until Monday when counsel for B.C. Sugar Refinery Limited and B.C. Sugar Refining Company Limited will make its presentation.

Power Failure From Vancouver

Power was knocked out for up to 23 minutes throughout the southern Vancouver Island area by a lunch-time break in the supply from Vancouver.

B.C. Electric officials here still did not know what had caused the "black-out" that covered the whole BCE system from Victoria to Cobble Hill in the North and Sooke in the west.

"It was caused by failure of power to feed into the underwater cable from Vancouver," a BCE official said.

All areas were out for varying periods from the 12.42 p.m. cut-off. First power came through again at 12.56 in some areas. The entire system was back in operation by 1.05 p.m.

OFF 20 MINUTES

Victoria was cut off for 20 minutes. Pedestrians and cars wound up in tangled confusion at downtown intersections when traffic signals went dead during the noon-hour rush.

Some telephone services were disrupted as switchboards in individual buildings lost power supply or connected to batteries. Some teletype lines to the mainland also went dead.

The break caused a delay in publication of today's Times.

HOSPITALS CARRY ON

Vital services at city hospitals were unaffected as emergency power units automatically assumed the load and kept operating rooms, iron lungs, and other machines going.

Administrators said that had the power protracted operations in progress would have been finished but no new ones begun.

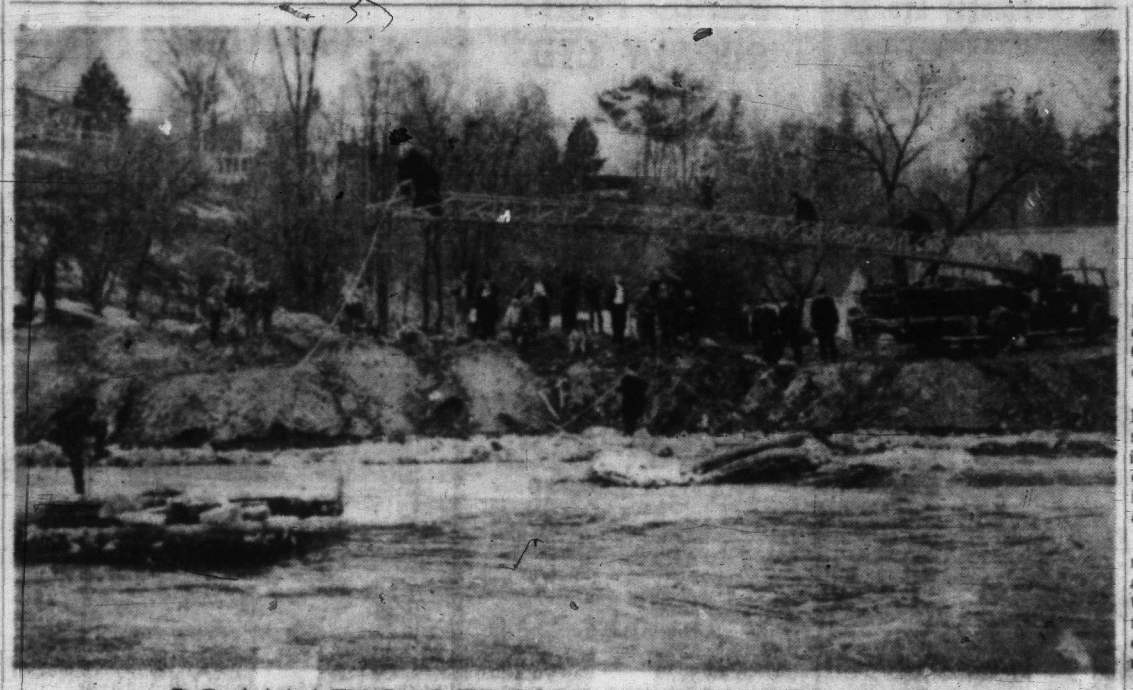
Ghana Urges Appeal To S. Africa

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Ghana asked the security council today to delegate the United States and Britain to appeal to South Africa to come to terms with leaders of the country's anti-segregationist movement.

If South Africa refuses to respond to the appeal, Ghanian Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sackey told the council, economic or diplomatic sanctions should be levied against it by the United Nations.

The suggestion from Ghana, the former British Gold Coast colony in West Africa, came as the security council started its second day's debate on race killings which took 80 to 80 lives 10 days ago when police fired on mass demonstrators against the apartheid policy.

South Africa maintained its boycott of the debate, although its delegation took seats in a far corner of the security council chamber.



DRAMATIC RESCUE FROM ICE FLOE

Perched on tip of 100-foot aerial ladder, fireman Henry Rasmussen shouts instructions to David Thorton, 13, who became trapped on ice floe in Humber River, along with friend Ricky Irons, 8, after it broke away from shore near Toronto. After it jammed downstream, firemen put out ladder and boys tied ropes around themselves and were pulled to safety. (CP photo)

Crowds Defiant Of Gov't Orders

CAPETOWN (CP)—Thousands of angry Negroes assembled in a native area near Durban, South Africa, today and shouted their defiance to government emergency orders commanding them to return to work and end their campaign for greater rights.

They poured down from the hills and assembled into a crowd of between 5,000 and 6,000, shouting down police orders to disperse.

The giant rally came as police charged twice with nightsticks to disperse demonstrating crowds near Johannesburg, one of the main trouble spots in the unrest sweeping the country.

The crowd at Cato Manor, near Durban, surged around armored cars trying to block their path, and shouted demands for the release of leaders of the campaign for Negro rights, arrested Wednesday.

A press car which entered the native township was ordered out by leaders of the crowd.

"Take a picture at your peril," they told a photographer. "We will kill you."

The crowd stoned buses and brought them to a halt. The violence subsided only after the chief magistrate and native commissioner of the area agreed to meet demonstrators in the local soccer ground.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Police fired several shots Thursday night to disperse a crowd of Negroes who stoned streetcars in the African township of Western, near Johannesburg.

One Negro was wounded and taken into custody.

SEALED OFF

More than 3,000 armed white soldiers and sailors sealed off two big Negro settlements near here.

The navy men formed a cordon around the Nyanga township while the army encircled Langa. Nobody was allowed to enter or leave the settlements.

Houses Set Aflame As Big Jet Crashes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A flaming six-engine jet bomber exploded over Little Rock today and rained debris and death in its plunge near the state capital.

At least five persons, including three crewmen, were killed. Two civilians were known dead.

Flaming debris set seven or more houses afire.

One airman parachuted to safety but was burned seriously.

The B-47 bomber had taken off only 10 minutes earlier on a training flight from its station at Little Rock Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command facility. An base spokesman said the plane was capable of carrying nuclear weapons but had none aboard.

DIGS FIERY HOLE

One giant piece of wreckage dug a fiery 25-foot wide hole in a residential section near the capitol building.

The fuselage crashed into the home of Mrs. A. L. Clark, two miles from the state capitol. She was trapped and perished in the flames spread by the debris.

The body of another civilian, Jimmy Hollobaugh, 27, was pulled from the debris near the capitol. Nothing was left of his home except the foundation.

Bodies of two of the airmen were recovered from the wreckage near Mrs. Clark's home. The Air Force said the body of the third crewman also had been found.

FRANCE CLEARS SAHARA FOR 2ND A-BOMB TEST

PARIS (AP)—France today placed its vast atomic testing area in the Sahara Desert out of bounds to aircraft starting Friday morning—a necessary prelude to a second atomic test blast.

The French have been ready for some time to conduct their second atomic test. It was felt they would not do so while Soviet Premier Khrushchev is visiting France.

Khrushchev resumes top-level talks with President de Gaulle tonight.

Khrushchev expressed opposition to further atomic tests by France, or anyone else. His reaction to any French atomic test while he is in the country would likely be acid.

Russia to Study West A-Ban Plan

GENEVA (AP)—The United States and Britain formally submitted the Camp David plan for a nuclear test ban to the Soviet Union today.

The plan challenges the Soviet Union to remove obstacles to a partial test ban treaty by agreeing to control details.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the Western proposals are "an encouraging step forward" but require extensive clarification.

He said he will submit questions on the plan at subsequent meetings of the three-power treaty negotiations after the Camp David proposals, worked out by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, have been carefully studied in Moscow.

In the 10-power disarmament conference also sitting in Geneva, Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, proposed that a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests be linked to a promise from world powers to renounce aggression and use of atomic and hydrogen weapons. He said these steps should be taken in advance of a general disarmament treaty.

If this approach is accepted, Zorin maintained, it will open the way to solution of the nuclear problem as a whole and represent "an important act of confidence."

BALANCED budget without major tax relief is prediction for federal budget to be brought down in Commons tonight by Finance Minister Fleming. Tax changes will be announced at about 6 p.m., P.S.T.

Reign of Terror Close in Africa

By GERALD CLARK
(Special To The Times)

JOHANNESBURG — The full tragedy of South Africa was apparent today as the proclamation of a state of emergency began to take effect.

The government of Hendrik Verwoerd has dictatorial powers, and the rule of law has ended. The police can arrest anyone, without warrant, and keep him in custody for any length of time. There is no longer any such thing as a writ of habeas corpus.

The press is throttled, and cannot even publish the names of persons arrested.

Censorship of outgoing cabled messages is possible at any moment. This reporter last night was barred from doing a radio broadcast to New York.

But most tragic of all is the extreme strain now placed on relations between whites and Africans—with the aftermath anybody's guess.

★ ★ ★

The emergency proclamation came in just about the time 30,000 Africans marched into Capetown, demanding the release of their leaders arrested earlier in the day. The marchers, on a column a mile long, jammed the streets around the main police station and chanted "Afrika, Afrika." Then they marched peacefully back to their settlements, having made their point.

Even without their recognized leaders, the Africans possess immense powers of spontaneous collective action. This has always been implicit in the South African situation. But now, inflamed and agitated, and without the restraining influence of moderate leaders, they are capable of defying even the police and army bullets.

The physical clash of nationalism has begun, and there are no longer contacts between the reasonable Africans and the authorities for a discussion of grievances. Any Liberal white who maintains political touch with an African runs the risk of arrest.

★ ★ ★

Foreign reporters are now beseeched by white Liberals to be careful what they write about them. If it is not exactly a reign of terror, it is close to it.

This is the first state of emergency in South Africa in 38 years. It is also the gravest moment since the crisis developed 10 days ago.

The proclamation caught a nation already stunned by sudden wholesale arrests of whites and non-whites. It was broadcast repeatedly over South Africa radio—in English, Afrikaan and Bantu languages. And in its wake came government orders calling up units of the active citizen force, the equivalent of the United States National Guard. The implicit next step is total curfew and martial law if situation continues to deteriorate.

The trial of strength has been brewing for

LOUISIANA PROTEST

Angry Negroes Quit College

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Enraged students at all-Negro Southern University quit school today because university officials refused to restore 18 of their fellows expelled for leading segregation protests.

The state-operated university was faced with the prospect of being left with only a handful of the 5,400 students enrolled.

The entire student body held a tumultuous pep rally instead of attending classes and decided to "form a double line to the president's office and withdraw."

That was not necessary, however, and long before the set time for forming the line students swarmed into the dean of men's office and began filling out withdrawal slips.

OUT OF SLIPS

The school ran out of withdrawal slips in 15 minutes and the students had to start using pink registration slips, writing on the back that "I officially withdraw as of March 31, 1960." Students were jammed outside the building waiting to get in.

A school official who refused to be identified said, "This has nothing to do with integration. What they're trying to do now is bargain with university officials. We can't bargain with them."

'China Must Cut Arms Too'—Soviet

GENEVA (AP)—Western delegations were informed today the Soviet Union will insist on Communist China adhering to any world disarmament agreement.

Soviet deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin made this point at the 10-nation disarmament conference, at which the Red Peking government is not represented.

JAILED NEGRO LEADER NEEDS MEDICAL CARE

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — A defence lawyer appealed today for hospital treatment for Albert Luthuli, leader of the African National Congress, arrested Wednesday in a police roundup of campaigners for Negro rights.

Lawyer Israel Maisels said Luthuli, a defence witness at the marathon treason trial here, is seriously ill with high blood pressure and needs immediate hospital treatment. Luthuli told the treason hearing Wednesday that he was struck twice in prison after his arrest.

Economic Future Bright—Grauer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. E. Grauer, president of British Columbia Power Corporation, predicted today that Canada's gross national product will rise to an all-time high of almost $37,000,000,000 in 1960.

Mr. Grauer said also that business and government investment in the country will be the largest in history if department of trade and commerce estimates are realized.

"This would mean a capital program totalling $8,800,000,000, four per cent above 1959 and slightly higher than the previous peak of $8,700,000,000 established in 1957, he said.

Addressing the annual meeting of B.C. Power shareholders, he said there was no reason to expect any significant increase in industrial prices unless trade unions force extraordinary wage increases.

An expected improvement in the already high level of consumer spending would be one of the main stimuli for good economic activity throughout the year.

Spending by provinces and municipalities is expected to increase in 1960, he said, but federal government expenditures would be about the same as in 1959.

Ottawa was committed to the policy of containing expenditures and balancing its budget and this should relieve pressure on interest rates.

This, he added, would release capital for needs of the provinces, municipalities and private investment.

A decline in home construction was expected, due to heavy demands for capital in other sectors of the economy.

Automobile sales across Canada were running above 1959 and this should prove the second best year on record, although below expectations.

He said British Columbia's forest products industry had shown a marked improvement through 1959 and would continue this trend in 1960, particularly in pulp and newsprint.

Mr. Grauer warned, however, that lumber and plywood demands may be off if housing slumps much in the United States.

Credit Union Names President

SOOKE—R. L. Rumsby was elected president of Sooke and District Credit Union at the annual meeting of the group in the Legion Hall here.

Other officers are Bob Waters, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Kendrew, secretary-treasurer; Frederick Newman, Frederick Rudd and Ivan French, directors. Retiring president is Frank Ericson, who held the post for seven years.

It was reported that during the past year 42 loans were made for a total of $10,000.

to use regular armed forces to prevent new Negro demonstrations after rounding up more than 200 leaders of the campaign of defiance against the government's race laws. Some white, Liberals and Indians were among those arrested.

A big army convoy meanwhile moved into Johannesburg, 800 miles north of this parliamentary capital, amid rumors that Negroes were planning a march on Fort Johannesburg Prison, where many of their leaders are held.

DISPERSE CROWD

Police were forced to make a baton charge on a crowd of about 300 who became threatening in the Jabavu area southwest of Johannesburg this morning. The crowd then dispersed.

Police said at Natalspruit, southwest of Johannesburg, railroad tracks were loosened and a stone roadblock thrown up on a highway. Police dispersed a crowd of about 150 near the roadblock.

The South African Parliament met through the night to speed action on legislation for the outlawing of the African National Congress, the Pan-Africanist Congress and other organizations accused of plotting a "massive revolt."

SPRING FLOOD HITS ONTARIO

TORONTO (UPI)—A spring thaw in southern Ontario today brought flooding that was blamed for the drowning death of a Guelph boy and marooned two trains in Meaford.

Drizzling rain meanwhile added to the threat of rising rivers and streams as mild weather moved in from the flood-ravaged U.S. Midwest.

'Things Can Never Be the Same Again'

LONDON (CP) — British newspapers today sharply criticized South Africa for arresting champions of Negro rights and declaring a state of emergency.

The story was carried under front-page banner headlines in most papers.

The Liberal News Chronicle says South Africa now is "under a full dictatorship" and "virtually on a war footing."

The Daily Mail, Conservative, says "things can never be the same in South Africa again."

The Times, Independent, says actions of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd present the "frightening spectacle of a man whom the gods wish to destroy and are depriving of wisdom."

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror comments: "This power-mad rule of South Africa is deliberately smashing the few bridges of understanding now left between the 3,000,000 whites of South Africa and the 10,000,000 Africans whom they dominate."
